COMMITTEE REACHES NO DECISION ON WORLD COURT

Senators Devote Two Hours to Discussion, Effort to Get Indorsement of President's Plan Failing.

HE IS FIRM FOR HUGHES PROPOSAL

Arguments Over Jurisdiction and Election Methods Follow Night Conference at White House.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee devoted two hours today to a general discussion of world court proposals, but adjourned until tomorrow without having reached a decision on any important point.

An effort to obtain the committee's immediate indorsement
for the proposal of Presidents
Harding and Coolidge for membership in the present court with reservations resulted in failure.

None of those present would venture more than a "hope" of early action on any of the plans now pending.

The committee discussion was opened with the suggestion that the "entire field" be considered, and developed around the opinion of certain members as to the jurisdiction of the present court and the method of electing members.

The arguments had not emerged from this general stage when adjournment was taken.

Chairman Lodge expressed the opinion that the committee would report out a resolution but said he doubted if action on it by the Senate would be possible at this session.

The three world court plans pending before the committee and a compromise proposal being worked out by Senator Pepper
(Rep.) of Pennsylvania, were considered at a White House conference last night, but no decision was reached in favor of any one plan.

President Coolidge told the Senators last night that his position was the same as indicated in his message on the subject and in various statements since made, in which he favored the original Harding-Hughes plan. This provides for conditional American adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Senator Lodge and other members of the Foreign Relations Committee went to the White House to enlist the President's aid in devising some way out of the world court muddle in which they find themselves.

SENATE INQUIRIES HURT BUSINESS, WATSON SAYS

Senator in Keynote Speech at Indiana Republican Convention Assails Investigators.

"OUTS" TRYING TO BLACKEN "INS"

Declares Stories of Corruption Are Exaggerated and Were Put Out as Campaign Overture.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—United States Senator James E. Watson was widely acclaimed to-day when, in addressing the Indiana Republican Convention, he declared he would support Ed. Jackson, the party's gubernatorial nominee, who was given strong Ku Klux Klan aid in the May 6 primary.

"I did not vote for Jackson, but he's here—he's nominated." The Senator said. "I am a Republican—it's a question of politics—he's under my banner and I'm marching by his side."

Jackson, called to the speakers' stand, was given an ovation. Senator Watson continued, declaring he was not a member of the Klan but said he had no objection to any man's belonging to it if he desired. He added he was not a Catholic, but had no objection to anyone belonging to that church.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—Indiana Republicans met in State convention here today to ratify formally the action of the Republican voters of the State at the primary in choosing Calvin Coolidge as their preference for the presidency, and in nominating Ed. Jackson for the governorship, to select seven delegates-at-large to the national convention, to adopt a platform and to name a complete State ticket.

An attack on the work of what were characterized as the destructive forces temporarily in control of the situation in Washington was a feature of the keynote by the temporary chairman, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana.

Besides assailing the Senate investigators as seekers after political advantage regardless of the effect of their work on the national Government, Watson reviewed the accomplishments of the Republican party since Civil War days; attacked the record of the Democratic party and praised the achievements of the Harding-Coolidge administration in international relations.

He said the Senate investigations were not only obstructive of needed legislation, but were designed to break down the faith of the American people in their institutions.

Beneficial Effects of Obstruction.

"We are now witnessing the beneficial effects of the activities of obstructive forces at Washington," he said. "For many weeks the work of legislation has been hindered or halted by the effort being made by certain powerful elements temporarily in control of the situation, to break down the faith of the American people in their national administration regardless of its effect on their national Government. For weeks the newspapers of the land have reeked with stories of public corruption, exaggerated out of all proportion to their true value, broadcast from the Capitol at Washington as an overture to the campaign of 1924."

"The Republican party does not defend wrongdoing in public officials in either state or nation. The pretense that the personal guilt of an isolated official is a party matter is essentially hypocritical. The attempt to make it appear, on no larger grounds than yet have been developed, that the Government is reeking with rotteness, is a kind of politics which strikes not so much at the party in power as at the heart of government itself."

"Enterprise Chilled." "The effect of this remarkable campaign has been to create distrust in the hearts of the people and fear in all leaders of business. It has bred a morbid state of mind throughout the country and in such an atmosphere initiative and enterprise are chilled."

"The present is filled with doubt and the future with forebodings because no man knows what the morrow will bring forth. The factory wheels have been slowing down, unemployment is on the increase, and the great prosperity we have been enjoying as the result of confidence in our Government, confidence in our institutions, confidence in the soundness of our business enterprises and in our financial stability, and confidence in our fellow man, is slowly waning because of these repeated assaults upon them all for purely partisan purposes."

"Believe me, fellow Republicans, when I say that the Government of this nation is clean and safe and sound. Believe me when I say that the foundations of the Republic will stand secure against the attacks of those who would undermine or overthrow them, safe in the affections of the people whose rights they protect and whose interests they safeguard. The spots on the sun do not blacken the orb. The few instances of official

Four Senators Absent.

Senators Willis and McCormick were absent, as they were out of the city.

Senators Borah and Hiram Johnson, both members of the committee, did not go to the dinner. Borah is understood to have decided in advance that it was bound to be a fruitless sort of affair, while the brickbats which Johnson hurled at the President during his campaign for nomination are sufficient explanation of his failure to appear.

None of the Senators was particularly talkative. Senator Lodge volunteered the information that they "had discussed the World Court," and hurried to his automobile, a deep furrow between his eyebrows. Moses remarked that he had been trying to find some plans satisfactory to the President and at the same time satisfactory to other patriotic Americans.

And although it was plain that no plan had been found which the Republican members of the Foreign Relations Committee thought would fill this bill, Senator Moses said he didn't "consider it impossible" that some form of World Court would be reported out and acted on. But even Moses didn't hold out much hope.

Senator Wadsworth said frankly there was little expectation of this session, though he thought it would depend on the date of adjournment. This fact in itself would give the Senatorial conferees little concern. But it is a source of real concern to Congress that the President on some form of a foreign policy that would at least make a showing to the country in answer to the popular demand for action.

Coolidge and Lodge Deadlocked. The President is understood to have fallen squarely back on the position which he took publicly before the country, that he would not sign the League of Nations.

This at once brought him into a deadlock with Lodge and those members of the committee who were inclined to support the latter. And the only man who seemed to have any idea that the two forces could be brought together, was Senator Pepper.

The Foreign Relations Committee had been carefully packed with irreconcilables when President Harding sprang his proposal that this country adhere to the protocol of the Court of International Justice, with the particular purpose of preventing any such action as Mr. Harding suggested, and has been kept that way through President Coolidge's various assertions that in his opinion to join the present court is the most practical way of attaining a universal tribunal.

Now, however, agitation for action on the Harding-Coolidge Hughes plan has become acute. Senator Swanson (Dem.) of Virginia has introduced a resolution asking for action on the Harding recommendation. That was switched to the Foreign Relations Committee.

wrongdoing are infinitely small as compared with the cases where public officials have been and are patriotically and honestly doing their duty every day and every hour.

"The standard of official conduct under Calvin Coolidge is high, in very truth never higher, and hopeless indeed would be the future of our republic should any other rule obtain. Knowing the President of the United States as all Americans do, his integrity, his zeal for the national welfare, his inflexible morality, his fixity of purpose for the right, it is unfortunate that, with all the great post-war problems confronting us and demanding solution at our hands, the business of the nation should be halted for weeks by the leaders of the party out of power who have been engaged in an effort to blacken the Government and besmirch the Republican party."

People Tired of Gossip.

"We all know that that effort has been a dismal failure. We all know that the people have grown weary with the flow of gossip and the flood of scandal with which they have been deluged from Washington. They are interested first of all in the welfare of their country and in the proper solution of its problems, and not primarily in the efforts of political leaders to gain a personal or party advantage, and I greatly misjudge both the temper and the spirit of the people if they do not give unmistakable evidence of the fact that they have not been deceived into believing that mudslinging is statesmanship, that slander is logic, that vituperation is wisdom, and that those who think and act as if they were, greatly offend the American people's sense of propriety and justice and fair dealing."

Senator Watson said the Republican party offered no patent panacea, "guaranteed to produce the millennium." He added that the Republican party did not believe that, by undue extension of the power of government the nation could be saved from the evils of socialism, which America has naught in common.

"If we are to keep up the stride of progress struck by this nation, we must bid industry go forward. We must be frankly and honestly those enterprises, small and great, that have made of this nation a vast workshop and through invention and organizing genius have gained for America supremacy in the financial world and primacy in the industrial world."

CONFEREES ELIMINATE CLAUSE FOR TAX PUBLICITY

empt from the 3 per cent tax all automobiles, trucks, the chassis of which sell for $1000 or less, and the bodies of which sell for $200 or less. The 5 per cent tax on automobiles, tires, parts and accessories was cut in half. The Senate had proposed to repeal entirely the tax on parts and accessories.

The Senate amendment imposing a 10 per cent tax on Mah Jongg sets was approved. A proposal by Senator McKinley (Rep.), Illinois, to cut newspaper mailing rates to the scale applying in 1919, approved by the Senate, was turned down. Likewise the Senate proposal to increase from 5 to 10 per cent the tax on all coin-operated slot machines was rejected.

Increase in Exemption. The Senate amendment proposed by Senator Simmons increasing from $2000 to $2500 the exemptions for heads of families with incomes of more than $5000 was approved. Heads of families with incomes of less than $5000 now receive such an exemption. No change was made in the exemptions for single persons.

Two House amendments, turned down by the Senate, relating to stock dividend taxes were definitely rejected. The one proposed that gains from the sale of stock dividends held for more than a period of two years should be taxed under the higher surtax rates rather than the capital asset rate of 15 per cent. The other proposed that similarly tax gains from stock dividends redeemed in liquidation proceedings.

Senator Smoot declared the conference measure was a "fair bill" and much better than that framed by the Senate.

Democrats were openly pleased at retention of the Senate Democratic income rates schedule. The plan proposed to cut the normal rates of 4 per cent on incomes of $4000 and under and 5 per cent above that amount to 2 per cent on incomes of $4000 and under 4 per cent on incomes between $4000 and $5000 and 6 per cent above $5000.

The surtax schedule approved is for rates at 1 per cent on $10,000 and increasing gradually to a maximum of 40 per cent application on incomes of $200,000 and over. The scale in the new surtax schedule provides for a rate of 35 per cent on incomes of $200,000, adding the two brackets to reach the 40 per cent maximum.

Treasury Situation Makes Bill's Position More Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—At the White House nothing was said as to the President's attitude toward the compromise tax bill, although the White House spokesman made it plain that the bonus reserves against the treasury of $100,000,000 a year lessened the chances of tax reduction by that amount.

The President, it was made known, accepts the situation presented by the bonus reserves, but abates none of his critical observation on its effect. The President believes the added burden will affect tax reduction somewhat this year and more in the years to come. As soon as the national debt is paid off the reduction of taxes may proceed consecutively.

The President, it was explained by the official spokesman, continues to hold to his theory of the relation of tax reduction to business. It is the purpose of the executive to relieve the entire business organization and the people generally of every possible burden of taxation. The bonus law does not do this, it was explained, but works in the opposite direction, and the executive, it was explained, is fearful of its effect on the economic condition of the country.

It was pointed out that money taken out of the production of the people for the payment of taxes cannot be used for the people themselves.

From other sources it was learned that administration advisers believe the best results can be obtained by approving such a bill as the conferees have in mind, although enactment of the bonus makes it just that much more difficult to relieve the general tax burden. Should the revenue bill be passed, it would be a tremendous task. It is so in this country and abroad. It becomes an approaching era of distributed wealth unlike anything in the past.

The advocacy to every hand, the response tremendous. It is so in this country and abroad. It becomes an approaching era of distributed wealth unlike anything in the past.

4 ARRESTED FOR FOUR BANK ROBBERIES IN OKLAHOMA

Two Women and Two Men Held in Chicago—One Said to Have Confessed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, May 21.—Two women and two men were taken into custody here early today in connection with four Oklahoma bank robberies, in which $50,000 was stolen. One man, police say, confessed to participating in the four holdups.

A squad from the Detective Bureau made the arrests, following an investigation that lasted three months. A raid at 4025 Drexel boulevard led to the arrest of Everett Weber, 25 years old, who said he also had used the name Earl Webb and was known as "Skinny" Webb. With him was arrested a woman who gave her name as Ruby Barker, 18. At 3722 Ellis avenue police arrested Ralph Debeaux, 20, and wife, Twila, 20, who said she was a sister of Ruby Barker. All are from Oklahoma.

Confessed robberies of the Catoosa (Ok.) Merchants and Farmers' State Bank, Collinsville (Ok.) State Bank, Tulsa State Bank and one other, were included in the list amounting to $50,000, police say. When Webb was arrested he had in his possession a bag containing $250 in currency. Webb confessed to the robbery.

The authorities are without evidence that either Ruby or her sister, Twila, and husband were implicated in the bank robberies.

The committee pressed the witness to say why he had not reported the incident. "I considered them as co-workers with my wife," Duckstein said. "Pettit and O'Brien were going to take the papers to Todd in New York."

"Why did you finally tell me?" asked Wheeler. "I had heard that Means had got some of the facts, and was 'getting my wife into it.'"

Mrs. Duckstein, though employed directly under W. J. Burns, former head of the Bureau of Investigation, did not report the paper enterprise to her chief, he said.

"Considering it a matter coming directly under the Attorney-General's supervision," he said.

Drinking When They Talked. Chamberlain asked the witness for details of his conversation with Pettit and O'Brien about getting evidence against committee members.

"Were you drinking when you talked about that?" he asked. "We were," said Duckstein.

"Did you think they were stringing you?" "No, I can't say I did," Duckstein replied.

Chamberlain suggested the stories might have "become more vivid with the liquor," but Duckstein said that, on the contrary, the liquor would result in free freedom of talk.

Under a Flashlight. Under further questioning Duckstein was more specific about the Means papers. He said that Pettit and O'Brien, on the night of March 31 took the witness and his wife over a secluded road in a Washington park. With a flashlight they made a hurried inspection of several cases of diaries and documents in the automobile. Since that date Duckstein said he "hadn't seen hide nor hair" of either man but had a telephone conversation on April 8 with Pettit.

"You told me on one occasion that I was going to be framed, didn't you?" Senator Wheeler asked Duckstein. "Yes, I did," Duckstein replied.

"And that was a month before I was indicted in Montana," the Senator persisted. "I guess so," said Duckstein.

"Didn't you think there was a possibility O'Brien and Pettit represented Mr. Means?" Chamberlain asked. "Oh, no," Duckstein said. "I thought they represented Todd, the man who was prosecuting Means."

Mrs. Duckstein "Can't Remember." Mrs. Duckstein then took the stand and Wheeler took her first through the process of identifying persons in the inquiry, including Jesse Smith. She said she "took exception from Jesse Smith in his private office on the sixth floor of the Department of Justice."

"What was his correspondence?" asked Wheeler. "The chief thing that is in my mind is that Mr. Smith was writing letters for President Harding about a scurrilous book that was being written about the President."

"Who worked with Smith in that investigation?" Mr. Smith sent for Gaston Means to help him.

"Many of Smith's letters," she said, "were giving the views of the Attorney-General."

"Did he tell you to make copies of his letters?" "Yes, he told me particularly not to make any copies of his letters. I tore up my shorthand note books from time to time."

"Whom did he write to about whisky permits?" "I can't remember," she said.

Wheeler put his question in a definite form and the witness said: "The letters seemed to be arrangements about whisky permits. They would be sent to the members of the committee."

"I think the less attention we pay to this the better," remarked Senator Jones (Rep.) of Washington.

"I don't think so," Brookhart rejoined. "We'd better find out how far this Government by blackmail is going to go."

Duckstein said he saw Todd's letter to Daugherty.

The committee pressed the witness to say why he had not reported the incident. "I considered them as co-workers with my wife," Duckstein said. "Pettit and O'Brien were going to take the papers to Todd in New York."

"Why did you finally tell me?" asked Wheeler. "I had heard that Means had got some of the facts, and was 'getting my wife into it.'"

Mrs. Duckstein, though employed directly under W. J. Burns, former head of the Bureau of Investigation, did not report the paper enterprise to her chief, he said.

"Considering it a matter coming directly under the Attorney-General's supervision," he said.

Drinking When They Talked. Chamberlain asked the witness for details of his conversation with Pettit and O'Brien about getting evidence against committee members.

"Were you drinking when you talked about that?" he asked. "We were," said Duckstein.

"Did you think they were stringing you?" "No, I can't say I did," Duckstein replied.

Chamberlain suggested the stories might have "become more vivid with the liquor," but Duckstein said that, on the contrary, the liquor would result in free freedom of talk.

Under a Flashlight. Under further questioning Duckstein was more specific about the Means papers. He said that Pettit and O'Brien, on the night of March 31 took the witness and his wife over a secluded road in a Washington park. With a flashlight they made a hurried inspection of several cases of diaries and documents in the automobile. Since that date Duckstein said he "hadn't seen hide nor hair" of either man but had a telephone conversation on April 8 with Pettit.

"You told me on one occasion that I was going to be framed, didn't you?" Senator Wheeler asked Duckstein. "Yes, I did," Duckstein replied.

"And that was a month before I was indicted in Montana," the Senator persisted. "I guess so," said Duckstein.

"Didn't you think there was a possibility O'Brien and Pettit represented Mr. Means?" Chamberlain asked. "Oh, no," Duckstein said. "I thought they represented Todd, the man who was prosecuting Means."

Mrs. Duckstein "Can't Remember." Mrs. Duckstein then took the stand and Wheeler took her first through the process of identifying persons in the inquiry, including Jesse Smith. She said she "took exception from Jesse Smith in his private office on the sixth floor of the Department of Justice."

"What was his correspondence?" asked Wheeler. "The chief thing that is in my mind is that Mr. Smith was writing letters for President Harding about a scurrilous book that was being written about the President."

"Who worked with Smith in that investigation?" Mr. Smith sent for Gaston Means to help him.

"Many of Smith's letters," she said, "were giving the views of the Attorney-General."

"Did he tell you to make copies of his letters?" "Yes, he told me particularly not to make any copies of his letters. I tore up my shorthand note books from time to time."

"Whom did he write to about whisky permits?" "I can't remember," she said.

Wheeler put his question in a definite form and the witness said: "The letters seemed to be arrangements about whisky permits. They would be sent to the members of the committee."

"I think the less attention we pay to this the better," remarked Senator Jones (Rep.) of Washington.

"I don't think so," Brookhart rejoined. "We'd better find out how far this Government by blackmail is going to go."

Duckstein said he saw Todd's letter to Daugherty.

The committee pressed the witness to say why he had not reported the incident. "I considered them as co-workers with my wife," Duckstein said. "Pettit and O'Brien were going to take the papers to Todd in New York."

ALBANIAN INSURGENTS SAID TO HAVE TAKEN SEVERAL TOWNS

Scutari Reported Captured in Uprising Against Government in Tirana.

By the Associated Press.

BELGRADE, May 21.—Trouble has broken out in Northern Albania, according to the Politika. Insurgents are reported to have captured Scutari and several other towns.

A Belgrade dispatch on May 19 reported armed strife in consequence of a conflict between the Albanian Government in Tirana and a number of deputies who demanded that the capital be transferred to another town. Another complication in the Albanian situation is the agitation growing out of the murder by bandits of the two American—Robert L. Coleman of San Francisco and George B. DeLong of New York. A Rome dispatch bearing on this situation last week said that a military dictatorship was believed to be inevitable.

MISSOURI DELEGATES TO THIRD PARTY CONVENTION NAMED

Meeting Here Under Auspices of State Branch of National Protective League.

Delegates from Missouri to a national convention of a third party in St. Paul June 17, which so far is nameless, but which its sponsors hope will nominate Senator La Follette for the presidency, were elected last night at a State convention under the auspices of the Missouri Branch of the National Protective League at 3535 Pine street.

Sheridan Carlisle of St. Louis, an attorney, was elected State chairman. W. W. Murrell of Webster Groves, secretary. Mrs. Louise Huckle of 3521 Park avenue, treasurer. Dr. L. H. Rock of St. Louis, National Committeeman and Miss Dorothy Carroll of Kansas City, National Committeewoman.

The 27 delegates chosen were: Carlisle, George S. Tourville, Murrell, Charles K. Cohn, Dorr H. Carroll, Rudolph Kassel, J. T. Justis, S. B. Edwards, Mrs. Carl Schreiner, Mrs. Mary Heinrichs, August Langenfelder, John Gewinner, Mrs. John Gewinner, Mrs. A. H. Montfort, John Toensfeldt, Horace G. Tuples, Miss Carroll, Mrs. H. M. Leigh, Mrs. Otto Plache, Miss Doris Wetzel, Mrs. Estelle R. Ellicock, Miss Mary Ford, Miss Louise Custer and the Rev. J. W. Hunt. All except Carroll and Miss Carroll, who reside in Kansas City, are St. Louisans. Hunt is a negro.

The convention did not adopt a platform but heard a "keynote" speech from Carlisle, who denounced Republican and Democratic national administrations. He advocated reconstruction of the Federal Reserve System and legislation to promote Government banking, public ownership of water power, public control of all natural resources, reduction in tariff duties, a constitutional amendment to permit Congress to pass a child labor law, and a constitutional amendment permitting Congress by re-enactment to make a law effective over a judicial decision holding it unconstitutional.

NEW CHARGES MADE IN MER ROUGE KIDNAPING CASE

State Health Officer Charges Authorities With Three Violations of Law.

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—The Morehouse Parish kidnaping case dormant since last November, when several members of the Ku Klux Klan, including Capt. J. K. Skipwith, "exalted cyclops" of the Morehouse Klan, were convicted of misdemeanors, was renewed today with the publication of a letter from Dr. Oscar Dowling, State Health Officer, to Gov. John M. Parker, charging that the law had been violated by the State and Federal authorities in relation to the disposition of the bodies of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, Dowling's communication, under date of May 15, has been turned over to the Attorney-General's office. Parker's term of office expired May 15.

Daniel and Richard, both of Mer Rouge, were kidnaped by a band of hooded men on a highway near Bastrop, the afternoon of Aug. 24, 1922. Two mutilated bodies, later identified as theirs, were found floating in Lake Lafourche, 25 miles from Bastrop, the morning of Dec. 22.

Dowling, in his letter to the Governor, charges that the parish coroner was prevented from holding an inquest by a Federal Department of Justice agent and a Louisiana National Guard officer. As a consequence, the coroner did not issue death certificates. This constituted one violation. Other violations involved the sale of two caskets and burial of the bodies. The law provides that before a casket can be sold the casket company must have a copy of the death certificate. A burial permit also must be obtained.

JURY REBUKED FOR FREEING MAN IN K. K. K. DRY CASE

Federal Judge Lindley Orders District Attorney to Investigate Witnesses for the Defense.

MISTRIAL IN FIRST OF CLEANUP CASES

No Agreement Reached on Verdict on Charges Against East St. Louis Saloon Keeper.

A verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury today in the second of the liquor cases brought by paid investigators of the Ku Klux Klan in the organization's liquor clean up in East St. Louis. Federal Judge Lindley rebuked the jury for its verdict and ordered the District Attorney to investigate the defense witnesses.

"I am surprised and disappointed at your verdict, gentlemen," he remarked to the jury and then turning to the District Attorney, he said: "I want you to make a thorough investigation of the defense in this case."

Belleville Man Tried.

The case was that of Ray N. Himmer, who runs a confectionery at 1315 Lebanon avenue, Belleville, charged with possession and sale of intoxicating liquor. It was heard yesterday afternoon and the verdict, returned last night, was not opened until today.

Two Klan investigators testified they were trying to buy liquor in a Belleville saloon on March 4 when Himmer volunteered to supply them. He took them to his shop, they declared, and sold them a half pint of whisky in a soda bottle. Himmer testified that he was not in business in Belleville until March 11 and produced a bartender, Elmer Fank, who declared he was not in the saloon on March 4.

The Himmer trial started yesterday noon after a mistrial had been declared in the first of the Klan liquor cases, that against Patrick O'Keefe, proprietor of a saloon at 303 Missouri avenue, who was charged in seven counts with sale and possession of liquor and maintenance of a nuisance. The jury heard the evidence Monday and deliberated about 12 hours without reaching a verdict.

Six Government Witnesses. Six witnesses for the government, all paid Klan investigators, testified to alleged purchases of whisky from O'Keefe on February 7 and February 10 last. The only defense witness was City License Inspector Hanlon, who testified O'Keefe's saloon was closed when he visited it February 7 to arrest O'Keefe for operating without a city license.

The Klan witnesses were attacked by Attorney Joseph McGlynn, defense attorney, in his argument to the jury, as "self-appointed enforcement officers." He charged them with being incompetent and over anxious to "make" cases against saloonkeepers.

200 Cases on Docket.

Almost without exception persons arraigned on liquor charges made by the Klan investigators have pleaded not guilty. Approximately 200 cases of this nature are on the docket for this term of court.

Three pleas of guilty to liquor charges were entered before Judge Lindley yesterday. Those pleading and the penalties assessed against each were: Mrs. Sarah Travelstead of West Frankfort $200 fine; Guy Morgan, 1120 Benton, East St. Louis, $200 fine and 30 days in jail; and William Taylor, a negro of East St. Louis, $200 fine.

NATIONS' AND PRATHER'S FINANCES INVESTIGATED

Federal Grand Jury Starts Inquiry Into Affairs of Two Former State Officials.

Inquiry into the financial affairs of Heber Nations, former State Labor Commissioner, and Charles S. Drug Commissioner, was made yesterday by the Federal grand jury, which recently returned indictments against the former State officials in connection with the investigation of the "protection" of distribution of real beer in St. Louis.

Four Jefferson City bankers were examined by the jury. They were Sam B. Cook, former Secretary of State and president of the Central Missouri Trust Co.; A. A. Speer, former speaker of the House of Representatives, and president of the First National Bank; J. H. Conrath, cashier of the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank; and Louis Lohman, cashier of the Merchants' Bank.

The investigation in this case is expected to continue for several weeks.

STUDENTS DEMAND THAT FOUR JEWS BE MURDERED

Lecture on Anatomy at Budapest Interrupted by Objection That Only Christians Are Dissected.

By the Associated Press.
BUDAPEST, May 21.—Jew-baiting, which for some time had ceased, was revived yesterday at Budapest University under unusual circumstances.
While Prof. Bugarsky was lecturing on general anatomy the students rose and demanded that four of his Jewish auditors be killed on the spot in order to furnish material for dissection, "so rarely have we seen Jewish corpses." The students declared that only the bodies of Christians were submitted for anatomical study, as the Jews buried their poor dead. They asserted that it was unjust to them that Jews should profit through study on the bodies of Christian dead.
Prof. Bugarsky protested energetically against the interruption. He called for the assistance of attendants, who succeeded in helping four Jewish students make their escape from the classroom after they had suffered abuse from students who attacked them. It was said that the university senate intends to expel the unruly students.

By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, May 21 (Jewish Telegraph Agency).—Pogroms against the Jewish population of Transylvania have been raging for several days, according to reports from Klausenberg. There have been massacres in several towns. Twelve persons are said to have been killed and large numbers wounded.
At Sasmar a Jewish student, Heinrich Kupler, is declared to have been hanged to a lamp post by a mob. His mother was drenched with petroleum and burned to death before his eyes. At Tejus numerous Jewish stores were plundered and burned. The mob, under the leadership of students, drove a Jewish woman, unclothed, into the market place.
It is asserted that in Klausenberg, Rumanian officials and members of the Rumanian secret police, who previously had been arranging a demonstration in favor of Crown Prince Charles of Rumania, who was in town, took part in the disturbances there.

Holdup Victim Indicted.
By the Associated Press.
PETERSBURG, Va., May 21.—Joseph H. Stephens, of Richmond, express messenger on a Norfolk and Western train, held up and robbed of $37,000 in December, was indicted here yesterday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the hold up. Indictments were also returned against Frank Mahout, J. Fred Reynolds and W. G. Longmire, a former policeman here. Most of the money has been recovered.

PRESBYTERIANS STAND BY ADAM AND EVE

Eligibility of Women to Executive Committees Reaffirmed; Barred From Public Speaking.

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 21.—The Presbyterian Church in the United States declared today through its General Assembly, in session here, the fact that it does not believe in organic evolution. As an explanation of man's origin this theory was denounced in a resolution reaffirming the church's stand given in a former assembly.

The committee on bills and overtures recommended that the assembly "reaffirm its deliverance and publish it to the world as our present position." The recommendation was adopted unanimously and without debate. The resolution stated in part: "The church is sincerely convinced that at this time it remains at this time sincerely convinced that the Scriptures as truly and authoritatively expounded in our confession of faith teach that Adam and Eve were created body and soul by immediate acts of Almighty Power, thereby preserving a perfect race unity, and that Adam's body was directly fashioned by Almighty God without any natural animal parentage of any kind, out of matter previously created from nothing."

The assembly voted to remain in the Alliance of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches throughout the world. Thirty-six delegates to the meeting of the alliance in Cardiff, Wales, in July, 1925, are to be appointed.

The General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church has reaffirmed the eligibility of women to executive committees. The assembly denied to women the right to speak in mixed public assemblies of the church. A previous assembly had prohibited women from "speaking by way of exhortation or leading in prayer or discussing any question publicly in the meetings of the church."

The assembly refused to withdraw from the Federal Council of Churches, though complaint had been made that the council was "dabbling in politics." The 1925 session of the assembly will be held in Lexington, Ky.

Episcopal Diocesan Convention Denies Equal Representation.
By the Associated Press.
GARDEN CITY, N. Y., May 21.—Delegates to the diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Long Island yesterday defeated a resolution declaring that the women of the church should have equal representation with the men in its councils.

"Bishop Frederick Burgess, head of the diocese, said that heresy trials had become 'as extinct as witchcraft and astrology.' "While I know that a trial of a Bishop has been scheduled," he said, in speaking of the meeting of the House of Bishops at Dallas last November, "yet I think I speak the truth when I say that heresy trials have become as extinct as witchcraft and astrology. It is clearly seen that the purpose of God is not advanced by appeal to fire or the sword."

He defended the pastoral letter issued by the House of Bishops, asserting it had made no attempt to compromise on doctrinal questions and "had no thought of anything but the apostolic witness to the gospel of Christ."

"There is no wide-spread unbelief in the Episcopal church," he continued. "The overwhelming majority of the clergy and the laity are loyal to the Nicene faith. The heart of the church is sound. Now is there any bona fide conflict between science and the Christian faith. It is not the men of science who are making difficulties about belief. The deepest among them acknowledge that the problems of God, of immortality and the Holy Trinity lie outside their ken. The Christian faith is above science, not contradictory to it."

Church Opposes Sale of Whisky on Prescription.
By the Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Tex., May 21.—After adopting a report expressing "uncompromising opposition" toward "so-called liberalism as taught by self-styled modernists" and dealing with prohibition enforcement and Sunday observance, the annual assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church adjourned yesterday to meet in May, 1925, in Nashville, Tenn.

The report of the committee on education dealt with the question of fundamentalism briefly, reaffirming belief in the Virgin Birth of Christ and the origin of man as told in the Book of Genesis. The assembly expressed opposition to all statutes which permit the prescription of whisky by physicians and the sale of such whisky by drug stores.

Be Fair to Yourself and Also to YOUR MONEY

Investigate This Opportunity to Invest SOME of Your Money in an Established St. Louis Concern.

IN the above factory, which we own, we make the only accurate expansion boring tools in the world. It is necessary for us to fully equip the factory of each manufacturer we sell, with complete DAVIS equipment. To do this it is necessary for us to have on hand enough raw materials to fill large initial orders and to fill reorders, for parts.

After 21 years' continuous business under one management, Davis Expansion Car Wheel Boring Tools are now the Standard Equipment of all Railroads. We are unable through lack of capital, to equip the factories of the largest industrial manufacturers in the country.

Product: Twenty-one years of constant service proves conclusively that the DAVIS TOOLS are the most practical and highly productive boring tools in the world. The strong basic patents on them assure the permanency of their command of the market.

Purpose of Issue: To purchase the raw material with which to increase our production, allowing us to equip the large industrial plants, etc., before mentioned.

If You Are Interested Do not hesitate to send us your name as we are not a stock selling organization. All we wish to do is to present this proposition to the people of St. Louis, giving them an opportunity to share in the profits of an established St. Louis concern.

BODIES OF MOTHER AND CHILD FOUND IN BARN

Husband and Brother Released
After Being Questioned
by Kansas Prosecutor.

By the Associated Press.
INDEPENDENCE, Kan., May 21.—Harley Etter, 23 years old, and his brother, Ted, 18, held for questioning in connection with the death of the elder brother's wife and 2-year-old child, whose bodies were found Monday night in the burning hay in the barn at the home, were released last night by Sheriff W. E. Trotman. Authorities assert mother and child were shot and an autopsy determine whether there are any bullets in the bodies was ordered by H. W. Berg, County Attorney of Montgomery County. Berg said today there was no sufficient evidence to warrant murder charges being filed against anyone.

Sam Etter, father of Harley, offered a reward of $500 for conviction of the person or persons responsible for the death of Mr. Etter and her baby. Harley Etter, in a statement to authorities, said his wife left home with the baby at noon Monday to drive to the home of her parents three miles away. He said he went to join her, but found that she had not arrived there. Monday night after returning home, he said, he heard noises outside the house. He said he fired shot through the front door and then went out and fired one into the air. A bullet hole was found in the door, and, according to authorities, Etter's rifle had been fired twice.

When officers arrived to search for the missing mother and child, they found the barn after a fire moving burning hay from the building they uncovered the two charred bodies.

POLITICIAN TAKEN IN RAID

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 21.—Identification of James Casey, one of the alleged beer runners arrested in a raid Monday as they prepared to send out 13 truck loads of beer from the Sieben Brewery, a Daniel O'Connor, political lieutenant, has been announced by the police.

O'Connor, former secretary to William F. O'Connell, who directed the McAdoo primary fight in Illinois, formerly was connected with the City Treasurer's office. His identity, the police said, was established by a note book, found after the raid and now in the hands of the Federal grand jury investigating beer running. The book contained the names of business men and policemen with counts of removals and sales of beer. Six policemen named in the summons before the grand jury yesterday.

BODIES OF MOTHER AND CHILD FOUND IN BARNHusband and Brother Released
After Being Questioned
by Kansas Prosecutor.

By the Associated Press.
INDEPENDENCE, Kan., May 21.—Harley Etter, 23 years old, and his brother, Ted, 18, held for questioning in connection with the death of the elder brother's wife and 2-year-old child, whose bodies were found Monday night under burning hay in the barn at the Etter home, were released last night by Sheriff W. E. Trotman.

Authorities assert mother and child were shot and an autopsy to determine whether there are any bullets in the bodies was ordered by B. W. Berg, County Attorney of Montgomery County.

Berg said today there was not sufficient evidence to warrant a murder charge being filed against anyone.

Sam Etter, father of Harley, has offered a reward of $500 for conviction of the person or persons responsible for the death of Mrs. Etter and her baby.

Harley Etter, in a statement to authorities, said his wife left home with the baby at noon Monday to drive to the home of her parents, three miles away. He said he went to join her, but found that she had not arrived there.

Monday night after returning home, he said, he heard noises outside the house. He said he fired a shot through the front door and then went out and fired one into the air. A bullet hole was found in the door, and, according to authorities, Etter's rifle had been fired twice.

When officers arrived to search for the missing mother and child they found the barn afire. In removing burning hay from the building they uncovered the two charred bodies.

POLITICIAN TAKEN IN RAID

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 21.—Identification of James Casey, one of 31 alleged beer runners arrested in a raid Monday as they prepared to send out 53 truck loads of beer from the Sieben Brewery, as Daniel O'Connor, political lieutenant, has been announced by the police.

O'Connor, former secretary to William F. O'Connell, who directed the McAdoo primary fight in Illinois, formerly was connected with the City Treasurer's office. His identity, the police said, was established by a note book, found after the raid and now in the hands of the Federal grand jury investigating beer running. The book contained the names of business men and policemen with accounts of removals and sales of beer. Six policemen named in it were summoned before the grand jury yesterday.

Editorial PageDaily Cartoons*PART TWO.*FRENCH LEADERS IN CONFERENCE OF NEW GOVERNMENT

Herriot and Painleve With Premier Poincare and President Millerand at the Elysee Palace.

FALL OF THE FRANC CAUSE OF CONCESSION

Leaders of New Government Expected to Support Currency as Active as Did Their Predecessors

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 21.—The fall of the franc is worrying President Millerand and Premier Poincare to an extent that they resorted to the extraordinary course of calling in Edouard Herriot and Francois-Marsal, the Minister of Finance, to explain the credit of France to the Parliament, to come with them on the subject as if men consulted had already become members of the Government.

M. Poincare and M. Francois-Marsal, the Minister of Finance, explained that the credit of France was being impaired by doubt as to what course the new Government would follow on financial questions. They gave it as their judgment that the leaders of the coming parties should make clear their financial policy. It is understood the visiting leaders were formed that the banking groups in New York and London which have been assisting the Bank of France in maintaining the franc considered it necessary that such a statement be issued. Premier Poincare said he had discussed the situation with the President of the Republic and was his conclusion also.

Herriot and Painleve are described as having said such an assurance would be in the nature of a ministerial declaration before the ministry was formed and without its having had the approval of Parliament. They are willing, however, to go to the extent of saying that they regarded the balancing of the budget as the imperative responsibility of any Government committed to balanced budgets.

The conference of the new leaders with the President and the Premier came about quite unexpectedly. M. Herriot, who arrived from Lyons only this morning, had no time to exchange a few words with his intimate political friends before leaving them to perform anticipation his first act as potential Premier of France. It developed that President Millerand, on the suggestion of Premier Poincare, after considering the change situation and the financial position of the franc generally, had consulted the radical leaders gathered with M. Painleve, the publican Socialist leader, to come with the present Premier and Minister of Finance at the palace of the Elysee, the presidential residence.

While the political world was still discussing the question whether Herriot was likely to accept the invitation he was on way to the Elysee in a motor car. The conference at the palace lasted nearly two hours. The greatest difficulty encountered in the phrasing of the declaration to the public which was finally issued in these terms:

"On the initiative of the President of the Council a meeting was held at the Elysee in the office of the President of the Republic, M. Poincare and Francois-Marsal explained to MM. Herriot and Painleve the financial situation in France."

"M. Painleve and Herriot affirmed the conviction that a rigorous balancing of the budget is imperative obligation on any Government whatever."

MacDonald to Confer With Successor to Poincare.

LONDON, May 21.—Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain plans to meet the successor Premier Poincare of France, during the Whit Sunday parliamentary recess for a discussion of the Dawes plan.

Contrary to reports from Rome, however, he is not likely to confer with Premier Mussolini of Italy before the convocation of a general allied conference which the British hope may be brought about June.

For the present the British have dropped negotiations regarding reparations but as

Discussion of Location

Plaza, With All Buildings Planned, Is Declared Essential to Preservation of Realty Values East of Twelfth Boulevard.

ON two issues in the Courthouse site controversy, there was bitter argument in last night's hearing, lasting more than three hours, before a special committee of the Board of Aldermen. On the question of obligation to the voters, and on the question of the business effect of removal of the Courthouse from its present site, able arguments were made on both sides by qualified speakers.

But on a third issue, the permanent future interest of the city, the advocates of the Twelfth boulevard Memorial Plaza site appeared to have the discussion largely to themselves.

"You are building for the future," said L. O. Hocker, lawyer with an office on Broadway, said to the special Courthouse site committee. "You are building not for the next 10 years, but for decades to come. You cannot afford to keep this Courthouse away from the buildings with which it belongs naturally. You owe it to future generations, and to your own memory in the future, to give this building the best possible location, which is the Plaza site."

City Plan Engineer Heard.

Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, developed the same argument further when he declared that the plaza group of buildings, including the Courthouse, is an essential part, was needed to keep the downtown center from moving to a point west of Twelfth boulevard, and to prevent a migration of the business district to the west. "Broadway banking interests are now fleeing," he said.

The discussion began with a Broadway broadside against the measure now before the committee, which is to fix the location of the Courthouse on the plaza site, and specifically on city block 489, bounded by Twelfth boulevard, Eleventh, Market and Chestnut streets.

W. Palmer Clarkson, speaking not as president of the Chamber of Commerce, but as a manufacturer with interests in the South Broadway district, spoke against the plaza site, and urged his recollection of the discussion of the question, before a committee of the General Council on Civic Needs.

The matter of the site for the Courthouse was left open, purposely, in framing the bond issue proposed. Clarkson said. "One man wished to fix a site, but said that matter should be left for future consideration, and W. Frank Carter, chairman, so ruled."

"Speakers who said that the Courthouse was going to be on the plaza did so without authority, and should not have given so much weight to their promises. The original Plaza plan did not include the Courthouse—in fact, the location now proposed for the Courthouse was thought of as a possible place for the Soldiers' Memorial building. Putting the Courthouse there was an afterthought."

Clarkson then set forth the proposal of the Broadway backers for a site for a new building, which he said would be left open. That is the block bounded by Market, Walnut and Fourth streets and Broadway. He said that, as Walnut street is to be widened, cutting into this block, the remainder could be acquired as a site, that Market street, between Fourth and Broadway, could be closed, and the new building connected with the old by a tunnel or by a passage above ground, and that the double block could be made a beauty spot, and a civic center to compare with larger ones on the Plaza. This arrangement, he suggested, would leave the conditions under which the city holds the Courthouse block as a gift, which he said might be forfeited by removal. He predicted that there would be no Plaza site for so long as a Sheriff's sale should ever be held from any building not located on the present Courthouse site. Other speakers dwelt on this point.

Planners "Without Authority."

E. J. Wallace, coal dealer, who was a committee chairman in the formulation of bond issue proposals, seconded Clarkson's statement that the question of a site would be left open. He said the minutes of meetings would prove that the "originators of the Plaza idea" did not include the Courthouse in their first plans. Those who promised a Plaza site did so without authority, he said.

WOODS' RETIREMENT
LAID TO EXCLUSION

Japanese Paper Says 'It Is Only Natural Man of His Principles Should Resign.'

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, May 21.—The resignation of the American Ambassador Cyrus E. Woods is the subject of editorials in all newspapers this morning. All are couched in friendly terms and express deep regret that the Ambassador finds it necessary to relinquish his post. All likewise link up his resignation with the enactment of the American immigration law with its clause excluding Japanese.

The Kokumishi says: "Nobody knows better than Mr. Woods the necessity of peace in the Pacific if the world is to have peace. It is only natural that a man of his principles should resign at this juncture."

"The Japanese will always remember Ambassador Woods' services to the cause of Japanese-American friendship, regardless of what our future relations may be."

The Yozoro Choho, Jinzo Journal, says the impending changes of Ambassadors at Tokyo and Washington are being simultaneously reassured to the future of Japanese-American relations. This newspaper quotes army officers recently returned from America with statements that the United States is becoming an imperialistic power, the youth of the nation being trained to militarism under various educational influences.

The Miyako Shimbun, speaking of Woods, regrets that Japan loses a good friend "at a time when Japan's efforts to cement Japanese-American relations are in a critical state."

The Chugai Shogyo profoundly sympathizes with Woods "in the trying predicament in which Congress has placed him in the face of his efforts to cement Japanese-American friendship."

The Jiji Shimbun says "the immigration bill displeased the nation as never before, but the nation is sincerely grateful toward Woods."

Cites Movement of Churches.

Schmidt compared the removal of the Courthouse to the westward movement of churches, forced out of the business district. He said "practical men" had successfully attacked the zoning law, with the result that a filling station is now being built in the shadow of the Kingshighway church center.

Hocker, the next speaker, besides the appeal for the future of St. Louis already quoted, argued that the financial district did not depend on the Courthouse.

"The removal of Faust's historic cafe," he said, "did more to injure Broadway than the removal of the Courthouse would. People don't go from the Courthouse to the banks, and bankers don't come to the Courthouse—I don't believe Mr. Jones has been there since he was a witness in a case a year and a half ago. (Jones interrupted to suggest that Hocker more than pointed his "guardian.")

"Why, some of us lawyers welcome a divorce case, because it gives us a chance to come up here, where there are trees and green grass."

Former Circuit Judge Heard.

Charles W. Rutledge, former Circuit Judge, emphasized the immediate need for a new Courthouse. He said he was a member of the committee which framed the bond issue, and he believed he was the first to suggest that a new Courthouse be included in the issue. At first, he said, this suggestion was not favored by others, who said the people would not vote for the new Courthouse. He said he had never heard the sug-

'Million White Horses,' Harnessed,
Not a 'White Elephant,' Award
Ford Seeks at Muscle Shoals

For the United States Will Have Sold Birthright of Millions for Mess of Fertilizer, Writer Declares.

The Post-Dispatch presents today the second of a series of articles on Muscle Shoals by Edwin Dial Torgerson, Research Secretary of the Old Colony Business Service Bureau, based on a survey which he conducted in the South. The first article, published yesterday, dealt with the activities of numerous land promotion companies which have been responsible for widespread propaganda throughout the Nation favoring the award of Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford. The second article tells of the immensity of the proposed gift to Ford.

By Edwin Dial Torgerson.

Imagine 1,000,000 horses, harnessed.

If you owned them would you sell them for $1.52 apiece and agree with the purchaser that you would "lease" him 1,000,000 fresh horses each year for the term of 100 years at something less than 4 per cent of their cost to you?

No good horse trader would do that, you say, and yet determined efforts are being made at Washington to put through that sort of deal at Muscle Shoals.

The potentialities of this great power project are immeasurable. It has been estimated that virtually 1,000,000 horsepower of electrical energy may be generated at the Shoals where Wilson Dam, Dam No. 3 and one or two other smaller developments are completed. The most conservative estimate of Government engineers is that $50,000 horsepower of energy may be produced by means of the two dams.

Muscle Shoals has been called a "white elephant." No one ever accused Alabama Falls of being a white elephant, and yet it would be just as reasonable to give Niagara Falls to J. P. Morgan, on his own terms and conditions, as to give Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford.

Seen as 1,000,000 Horses.

The writer rather prefers to think of Muscle Shoals, not as a pet pachyderm, but as 1,000,000 white horses, harnessed, champing at the bit and impatient to do the bidding of man. You need not hear the roar of innumerable hoofs as you stand on the great bluffs at Muscle Shoals and the thunder of the rapids comes to your ears.

I have heard many people say, "What is this Muscle Shoals, and what's all the noise about?"

The question is simply answered. Muscle Shoals is nothing but a dam and the old mill wheel of the Colonial days multiplied 1,000,000 times. And all the noise is about the power that the dam will generate—power to light hundreds of cities, turn the wheels in thousands of factories and enrich nine great states.

The other factors entering into the Muscle Shoals question were thrown in merely "to make it difficult" like the bark in the story about the chicken. The matter of "cheap fertilizer" for the farmers, for instance, is wholly beside the mark. It should not be a determining factor in the decision of the Muscle Shoals, because every interest which has offered a bid has agreed to manufacture nitrogen fertilizer. There is some doubt that it may be manufactured profitably, as a commercial proposition, and the offer of Mr. Ford and some of the other bidders is to produce it at "cost plus 8 per cent," which may not mean a great deal to the farmer when the final cost is counted.

What About Balance of Power?

But at any rate, to produce 400,000 tons of fixed nitrogen a year at Muscle Shoals will require only 100,000 of the $50,000 minimum horsepower available. The important inquiry for the taxpayer to make is, what will become of the rest of that power?

The navigable waterways of the United States are dedicated, supposedly, to the public, and under the conservation policy evolved after years of effort and finally expressed in the Federal Waterpower act, the electrical energy generated from those streams also is regarded as the rightful heritage of the people. Before energy may be put on the market for sale at low cost to the people, millions must be expended in the construction of great dams and hydro-electric power houses.

There are two schools among the conservationists, those who demand public ownership and operation of these utilities, and those who regard private ownership with Government regulation as the wiser plan. All are agreed, however, that the people have some rights in the matter, and that the greatest possible good for the greatest possible number of persons is the underlying principle of water power conservation.

Magnitude of Proposed Gift.

Let us consider, then, the magnitude of the gift of Muscle Shoals to one man—Not to 18,000,000 who

Pinchot vs Mellon

Governor Says Man in Whisky Business 40 Years Should Not Be in Charge of Law Enforcement.

By Teased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 21.—On May 11, Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania in a speech before the general conference of the Methodist Church at Springfield, Mass., attacked Secretary Mellon's proposed prohibition enforcement, and declared the Secretary's interest in the Overholt Distillery should bar him from his office.

In a letter to the New York World, Mellon replied that the Governor's charges were too vague to be taken seriously and challenged him to state the specific charges. The World invited Pinchot to reply, and has received the following letter:

"You asked me for comment on Secretary Mellon's letter to the World printed in your issue of May 17. Secretary Mellon's letter contains nothing that attacks the accuracy of my statement at Springfield or in the slightest degree lessens his official responsibility for the disgraceful failure of the Federal enforcement service.

"How dismal that failure is, the Remus testimony, reported in part in the same issue of the World, clearly shows—20 odd million dollars of bootleg whisky fraudulently sold by one man in two years upon liquor permits issued mainly, if not entirely, by Secretary Mellon's subordinates.

"In spite of everything that Secretary Mellon could do to prevent it, senatorial investigation of the enforcement service has been ordered. That will take care of the details the Secretary asks for.

"To suggest, as the World does editorially in the same issue, that Secretary Mellon, who threatened to resign rather than submit to investigation, is now prevented from moving for an investigation because my statements are not sufficiently specific, is manifestly absurd.

"I repeat what I said at Springfield, that I do not know whether it is legal for a man who has been in the whisky business for 40 years, who still has an interest in large quantities of whisky, to be at the head of law enforcement, but I do know that it is wrong."

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 21.—A larger share for labor in responsibility for the control of industry, and the devotion of wealth created by society to the development of all the people, were recommended in a report on industry and social service approved by the committee on the state of the church of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference.

"Wealth according to the holders through monopoly values or special privileges, or through large opportunities for costless saving," the report said, "is not earned. Wealth created by society should be devoted to the development of all the people in ways to be determined by the people themselves."

A phrase declaring that the wealth of society "belongs to society," was stricken out as too socialistic in implication.

The report, approved yesterday, reaffirmed the social creed of the church, and added to it what were stated to be "the principles of a larger conception of social service." It declared that the church must stand for social measures that would give the inner people a life its chance, and recommended that the church and commerce henceforth "lead a new life."

The report favored a living wage and the safeguarding of the health and security of workers. It recognized "the laborer's right to be represented by men of his own choosing."

"Property rights possess an inherent sacredness," the report continued, "which must be beyond the reach of criticism and revision by Christian society. We recognize the ethical divergence between property for use and property for power. We maintain that a man is entitled only to what he has in some instances earned."

The report advocated the elimination of unemployment and the encouragement of self-determination and self-consecration in all workmanship and loyalty in service should be the motives animating industry.

Special Session of Southern Methodist Conference.

By the Associated Press.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 21.—The College of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, decided last night to call a special session of the General Conference at Jacksonville, Fla., to consider the proposed unification of the Northern and Southern Churches.

Muscle Shoals, as Government engineers have recommended that it be developed as a hydro-electric project, Government engineers have been made for Muscle Shoals every now and then since 1905, when President Roosevelt refused to approve a plan for its development as a private hydro-electric project. Government engineers have made repeated surveys with a view to its eventual private development.

Militarizing the Boy Scouts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ONE of the most depressing signs of the times is the militarization of the juvenile mind of America through the ceremonial and flummery of the Boy Scout movement. In a motion picture of recent scout doings in the Coliseum I saw a massed column of boys in dough-bog uniform marching, each with a large parade flag. The sight was thrilling to the dramatic emotions. But what was behind it all? In the center of the spectacle was the bland, patronizing countenance of the president of the Commonwealth Steel Co., our "big, loving" Police Commissioner. It was a propaganda atmosphere of unthinking obedience to the flag and unthinking worship of the military idea. Loyalty and obedience are exalted, but what of justice and knowledge?

As I looked upon that array of innocent young humanity, intoxicated by a spell of which they knew not the meaning, I had a vision of 10 or 15 or 20 years hence when these same boys are massed on the field of real battle, the victims of some political, commercial or imperialist war brought about by propaganda and fed by the unthinking, shallow, cock-and-bull patriotism taught these boys by some of the pious pillars of our materialistic society. Will they bury them on the field or cremate them where they fall?

I am the father of a beautiful infant boy. I want him to be a he-man and learn all the manly athletic, camping and woodcraft arts which are taught the Boy Scouts. I am resolved to be reconciled to his dying for justice if necessary. I cannot be reconciled to seeing him swing into the vortex of an insane, rotten, murderous militarism.

New Union Market Design.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I DON'T like the design for the new Union Market Building. It needs something else. I don't know what, as I am not an architect. Possibly bay windows at the corners running up into some kind of a tower might give it a lift. Let's set a bare, ugly look. It might be all right for a storage plant or a warehouse. But for a show spot in the heart of the downtown district, it is a joke, or an eyesore. I think the old shack with its makeshift additions looks as good, if not better, than the new design.

If this is a sample of what we are to look for in the new civic buildings to be built from the bond issue money, I think we had better quit right here.

Ever since I came to live in St. Louis I have heard that some day we were going to have a bigger and better and much more attractive Union Market structure. I can't see it in the published drawings.

I miss the outside stalls that faced on the sidewalk. That was one of the attractions that appealed to most people. There are too many ugly, unsightly new buildings going up as it is. Let's set a standard and make them beautiful. Once the market is up, it will have to stand for many years. It would not hurt if we copied one of the World's Fair buildings. Better something to make it attractive. Somebody get busy.

A TAXPAYER.

Pistols as Defensive Arms.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE read your article on crime and pistol-toting.

As a coach of high school rifle and revolver clubs, I have taught boys and girls of the ages of 14 to 18 years how to handle and use those weapons so that several have taken place in national rifle shoots and three have represented our country's shooting fraternity on international small bore rifle teams. It is my firm belief, and I would wager my life that I am right, that not one of the many boys and girls who have been taught to use guns as they should be used will ever be brought into a police court except as a champion of law and order.

This has been my experience, and today I believe that the only cure for lawlessness is to teach men and women the use of firearms and freely grant permission to carry firearms on presentation of certificate of character and proficiency from others than politicians and pastors of churches. I would also have rifle and pistol practice taught in the grammar and high schools of our country as a regular course.

I would make it a rule of civil service examination for policemen that they be not admitted to the police force until they had passed the minimum of expert pistol shot over the standard Government ranges, this certification to be obtained at his own expense at a national shoot at Camp Perry or some other stated range. In this way we would have a citizenship who would not be at the mercy of cowardly rat-faced bandits preying on defenseless men and women; also a police force that would not be a menace to innocent people every time they had occasion to draw a gun. If such were the case, banditry would not flourish, for none of that ilk want to die any more than do law-abiding citizens.

C. G. (BILL) WILLIAMS.

COOLIDGE'S LOST LEADERSHIP.

President Coolidge's reaffirmation that he stands for our participation in the World Court would be more gratifying if Mr. Coolidge's attitude meant anything in the way of effective leadership. But recent events indicate that it means nothing.

The President's power and influence as a leader of his party seem to be broken. Possibly nothing illustrates more his weakness than that on the eve of his nomination for the presidency leaders of the Republican regulars in Congress who have brought about his nomination should flout his leadership and advice and vote against him. They overruled his veto of the bonus bill, and trampled down his protest of the Japanese clause in the immigration bill. Little attention was paid to his Mellon tax program. The Senate overwhelmingly opposed his hesitating, dallying policy in dismissing Denby and Daugherty. Lodge has slapped him in the face by proposing his own World Court.

Mr. Coolidge seems to be a recognized leader without a following. With the usual tendency on the part of a branch of Government to seize power when it can, Congress has undertaken all the responsibility for legislation and for the handling of foreign affairs.

The Senate's policy of usurpation began with Wilson and was continued when the Old Guard picked Harding as a "rubber stamp." His leadership was flouted because it was never intended that he be a leader. Mr. Coolidge lost his chance to regain executive authority and leadership when he faltered and paltered over the investigation of the Teapot Dome scandal and the Department of Justice scandal, and failed utterly to act up to his full responsibility.

One other obstacle to his subsequent leadership was his ambition to be nominated for President. Congress discovered at once that Mr. Coolidge would not fight and would not assert himself for fear of political opposition. He was in the shadow that hangs over the man who seeks the presidency.

So neither his attitude on the World Court nor on the revision of the tax bill to fit the needs of the bonus will count for much, but with an anticipated surplus of $400,000,000 and a bonus call for only $152,000,000, with a few salary increases, which will still leave nearly $200,000,000 to dispose of, Congress will probably accomplish something in the way of tax reduction. The power lies now in the Capitol.

TWO RESIGNATIONS.

The almost simultaneous resignations of the Japanese Ambassador to Washington and the American Ambassador to Tokyo brings a sharp realization of the blow to good feeling between the two nations delivered by the abrupt passage of the Japanese exclusion clause in the immigration bill. Hanihara is determined not to remain in the United States after exclusion has become effective. Woods, who has become popular in Japan, partly on account of his much-praised work in earthquake relief, is discouraged by a congressional action that undoes so many years of diplomacy and strains long-cultivated ties of friendship.

A statement of Ambassador Woods illustrates the genuineness of his feeling for friendly relations with Japan. He has found among statesmen in Japan, he says, "a real desire to continue in cordial friendship with America and a realization that co-operation between the two nations in maintaining peace in the Pacific and solving the great problems of the Far East is essential to the welfare of both."

Mr. Woods may do a great deal to modify popular American feeling on the Japanese question after his return to America, but the task would be too great for one man. If the white and yellow races are incompatible as neighbors that is all the more reason why diplomatic advice should be given priority in the execution of policies.

ANOTHER SPACE-TIME CONQUEST.

Like most other discoveries in applied electricity, the transmission of photographs by wire or wireless, described in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, is a new triumph over space and time limitations. The new invention will eliminate the space that separates us when we desire to see what is going on elsewhere, and the time formerly wasted in waiting for pictures of persons and events elsewhere, perhaps thousands of miles away. For there appears to be no limit to the capacity of the invention except the failure of the current or wireless impulse that works the machines.

Perhaps the most wonderful feature of this picture-producing mechanism is the perfection of its synchronizing parts. With the aid of tuning forks two cylinders miles apart rotate as one, starting, revolving and stopping at exactly the same instant. Without this precision, which might be said to eliminate time, the picture would be a blur.

The imagination is stirred by such inventions as these. Their effect ought to be to bring humanity itself closer, to cultivate neighborliness and promote peace.

INSURING FUTURE CITIZENSHIP.

St. Louis is going to have a new Y. M. C. A. organization. This city has permitted lesser communities to outtrack it in this particular phase of man building long enough. Several teams of "Y" workers are soliciting funds throughout the city to develop the new Y. M. C. A. plan, and it is the duty of every thinking man to assist in this work. No man who wants to see a mightier, more beautiful St. Louis in the years to come will neglect this opportunity to contribute toward the development of the boys who will direct the affairs of the city in future years.

The St. Louis of tomorrow will not be entirely in the hands of the boys and girls of sheltered St. Louis homes. Many will come to St. Louis from other cities and from farms. They will be strangers in a strange place. They will need a clean, wholesome environment during the formative months and years of their lives here. St. Louis owes it to them.

It is not altogether chance that St. Louis, with inadequate Y. M. C. A. facilities, was the scene of 210 murders in 1923. A great many of those tragedies might not have occurred if the wholesome influence of Y. M. C. A. reading rooms and gymnasiums had been available to their perpetrators.

A dollar invested in the "Y" is a dollar invested in the boys who are destined to become the husbands and fathers, the executives and workers of the St. Louis of tomorrow.

THE MACHINERY OF EMPIRE.

The Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., is crowded almost to capacity, so Warden Biddle said in St. Louis the other day, explaining that this condition was due to the extraordinary increase in the number of prisoners sent there in the last 10 years.

This increase in the number of Federal prisoners is accounted for by a series of laws passed by Congress, beginning with the act making theft from an interstate freight shipment a felony and including the Harrison antidrug act, the Mann act, the Dyer act, relating to the interstate transportation of stolen automobiles, and climaxed by the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

Examination of local Federal Court records by the Post-Dispatch shows astonishing results. Those records go back to 1864. From that year up to 1913, a period of almost half a century, 5747 cases were docketed. In the 11 years since 1913 there have been 4478 cases docketed, or about 80 per cent of the number during the preceding 50 years. And in the five years since the Dyer and Volstead acts there have been 3000 cases, or almost a third of the total over the long stretch of years from 1864 to 1919.

Prison congestion, actual or prospective, is only one phase of the problem raised by this legislation. The dockets of the Federal courts are jammed. Federal Judges are like galley slaves chained to the oar through a working day which industry has pretty well abolished. If the grind of the Federal bench were generally known public sentiment would protest, and probably as effectively, as in the case of the United States Steel Corporation's 12-hour day. True, the Government has recognized this condition and tried to relieve it by creating more judgeships, but the relief has been slight, because of the ever-swelling volume of law violation rushing in on the Federal courts.

We must enlarge our Federal penitentiaries and increase the number of Federal Judges. For the Federal Government, having gone so far in the regulation of affairs with which a few years ago it would not have dared to meddle, shows neither the disposition nor capacity to pause. Egged on, now by one group, now by another, Congress solemnly continues to place police regulations on the Federal statutes, with a continuous expansion of the Federal Government's functions and assumptions. So, along with more Federal penitentiaries and more Federal courts, we must have more Federal Commissioners, more Federal Marshals, more Federal bureaus. We are getting them, too. We are setting up the machinery of the Federal empire into which we are galloping down the ever-beckoning bridge paths of reform.

"CONSTRUCTIVE" BONUS POLITICS.

Commander Quinn of the American Legion generously refrains from "gloating in triumph" over the "justice" achieved in the passage of the bonus, "for great work remains for the legion to do, work which makes the legion the greatest constructive force for good in America today."

Family providers will await with interest the good which this great "constructive force" has accomplished in connection with the taxation and cost-of-living problems. Political students will observe the good which is to be effected on our popular form of government by the precedent of an organized minority bludgeoning from an unwilling Congress a dividend derived from the pockets of all the people. Patriots will greet—with what feelings?—the mercenary standard established for military service in the country's defense.

Commander Quinn mentions care and protection of the disabled and the helpless children of fallen comrades as included in the legion's program for good. Is the care of these really meritorious cases to be advanced by voting billions to the able-bodied?

The good which will come to the country from the bonus victory, if any, will be to brace American citizens against the vice and disease of minority rule effected through the apathy of the masses.

Ambassador Woods has been guilty of perpetrating a new mother-in-law joke in resigning his office in Japan because of the condition of health of that estimable lady. We are wondering if the Ambassador has not acquired some Oriental diplomacy during his recent experiences.

EDUCATING THE VOTERS.

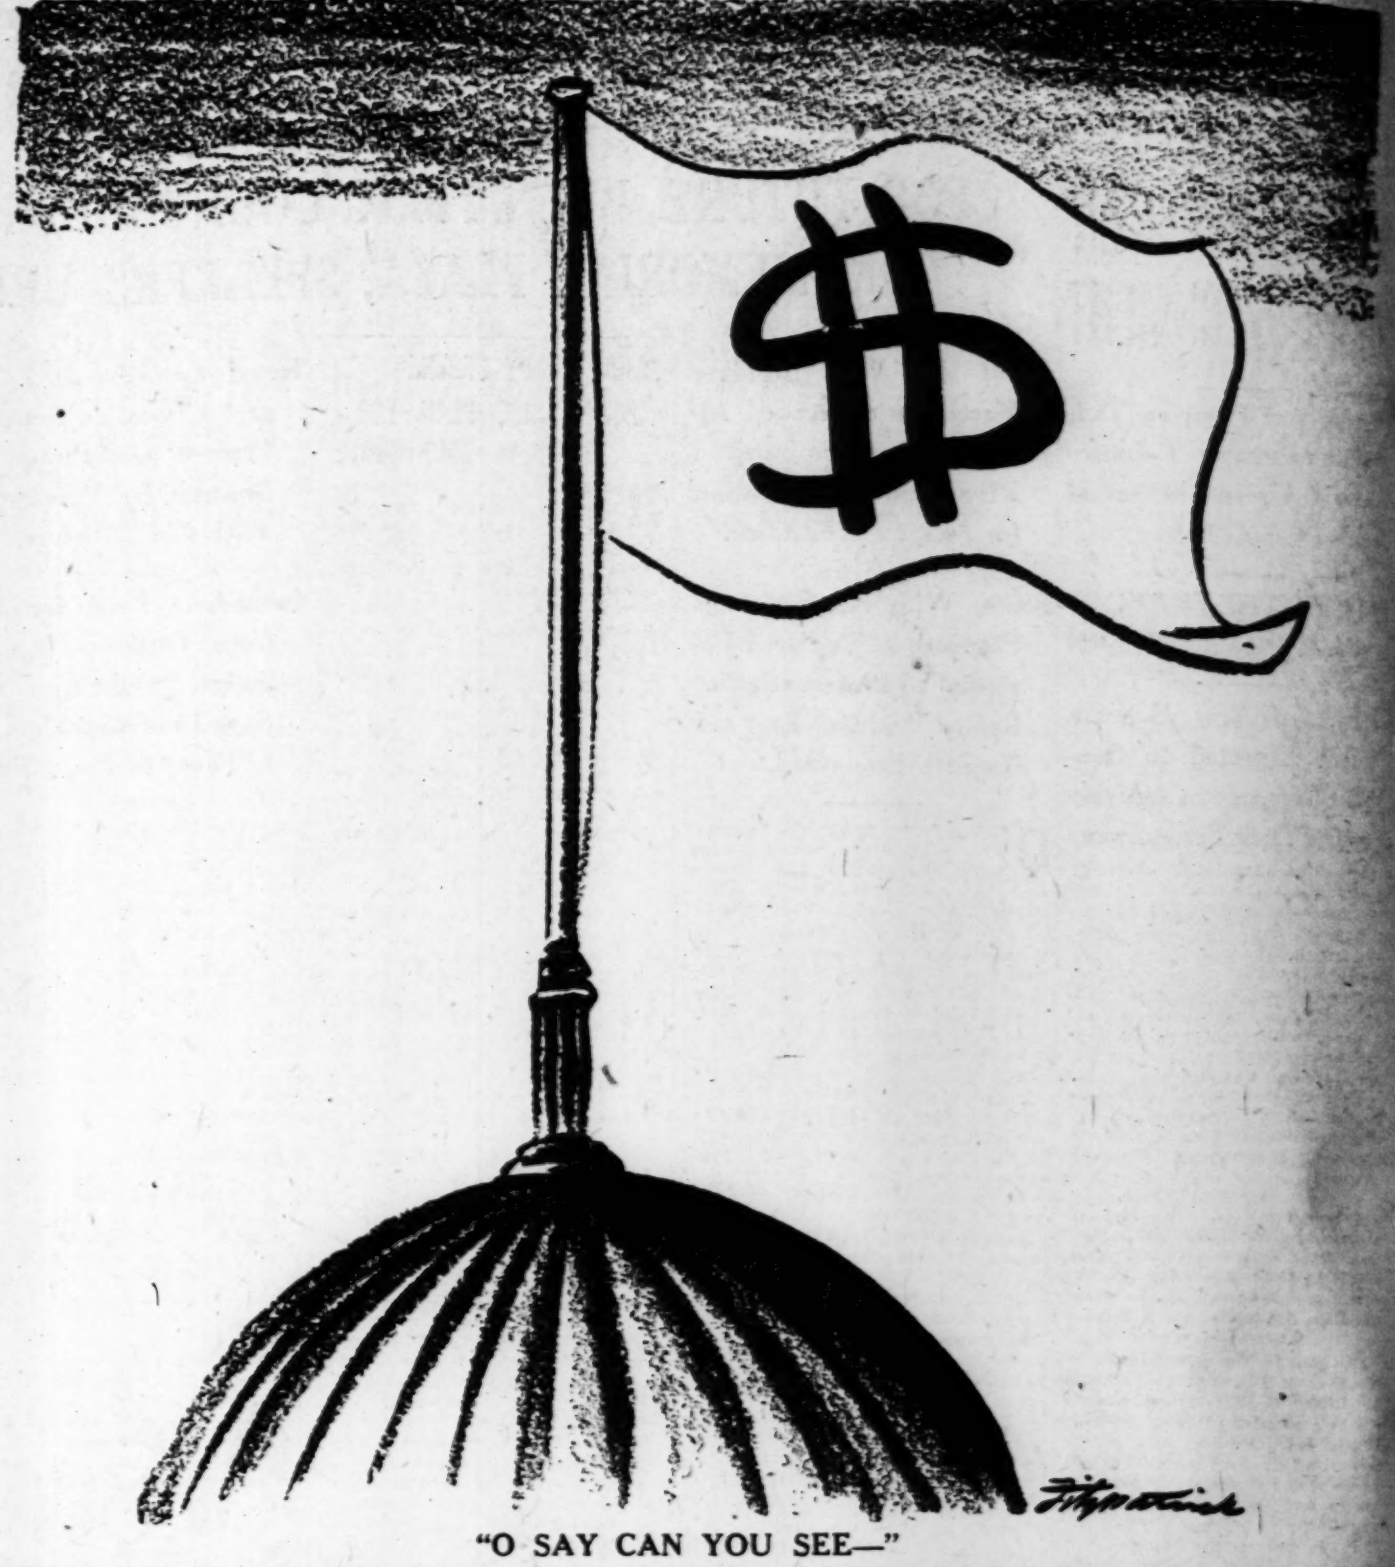

As an educational force in Texas politics, the Ku Klux Klan is said to have spent $25,000 in the 1922 campaign, which resulted in putting Earl Mayfield, the Klan's candidate, in the United States Senate. According to J. O. Jett, former doorkeeper of the imperial palace at Atlanta, who bared some of the Klan's inner working before the Senate committee investigating the Texas election, Imperial Wizard Evans sent this money to Texas, to be used by Klan "publicity directors" to "educate" klansmen to write Senator Mayfield's name on the ballot.

A great many Texas voters certainly need education. The State has 295,844 illiterates. Of this number, 114,417 are foreign born. And 102,053 are negroes. Of course, the Klan would not undertake to "educate" these two elements, which it claims are unfit for exercising the franchise. Left left 80,643 native-born white illiterates to teach to write Mayfield's name on the ballot, which was the extent of the "education" sought to be given by the Klan.

Mayfield got 221,323 of the total vote of 338,839. So it appears that the educational work was successful for the end sought by the Klan. However, that it did not go far towards removing the burden of illiteracy is shown by the fact, brought out in the Senate investigation, that most of the ballots cast were defective. Mayfield's ballots had 277,505 defects, some ballots having many defects.

Although Mayfield won, with the Klan's aid, it is to be feared that a large part of the educational fund of $25,000 was diverted to other uses. Doorkeeper Jett testified that he himself grafted from $500 to $1000 of the Klan's funds in a week, and added: "They all did that."

As an educator the Klan gets the bootleggers "look great heart" from Dr. Butler's famous speech. The hope of the bootleggers, on the contrary, is in prohibition, which is their bread and butter.

MY golf game has the spirit of adventure. It cares very little for the traveled way.

It loves the deep woods.
The brush.
The bramble.
The running water.
The sweet smell of May.
Or maybe that is not the way to spell it.
Anyhow, a flower.

Full many a time have I found my ball whorlpinning in the copse with some jack-in-the-pulpit.

They two together reveling in the wild-wood.
The dogwood.
The sweet William.
The hawthorne.
The sweet smell of May.

Also there have been times when I haven't found it, but I always knew it was with the young and tender things of Spring.

So this is what my golf game is like. It views the golf course as some great garden in which Nature reveals herself lovingly.

Laughingly.
Lonely.
Far from the fairway.

You will say this is no golf game at all—But yesterday I saw a thrasher's nest with six beautiful eggs in it.

Would you compare that with finding the ball in the cup?

Not the sweetest of birds would hatch the ball in the cup—But the thrasher can hatch the six beautiful eggs.

Say the ball in the cup is worth ten cents to you.

Then think of the six little thrashers all learning to sing.
Each in Springtime on the topmost bough of a tree.
Each flooding the evening with melodious song!

Think, man! Think!

Peering out from this covert, like the birds themselves, I saw a couple of good golf players go by.
They were softly swearing.
They knew not that within 20 feet the May apple bloomed.

Their gaze went straight ahead—on to the flag.
Presently "Three."
Then a hoarse groan of "Four."

And I lying off in the brush, six! Amid birds.
Eggs.
Blossoms.
Perfumes.
Song.

A St. Louisan motoring in Italy writes from Caracassonne:

At all times wonderfully medieval and picturesque, Caracassonne is at just this time the LIVING embodiment of the Middle Ages. This is because a moving picture is being taken here and some 2000 men and women are running around the walls, in the moats and through the narrow corkscrew streets all dressed in the funny-looking costumes worn in the time of Louis XI. You can imagine how strange the sight was that greeted our eyes when we climbed the steep approach to the big Narbonne gate and saw not only the lofty walls and towers of the thirteenth century, but also a thirteenth century army besieging the fortress—men and horses in armor and women with hair flying in the breeze hurling stones upon their assailants from the top of the walls. This morning a relief army arrived, all clad in shining armor and its flags flying. It was a gallant sight to see the horses galloping across the drawbridge and hundreds of men and women on top of the walls waving banners in greeting to their rescuers. You who have seen Caracassonne will know how realistic this picture is. It is to be called "Le Miracle de Loup" (The Miracle of the Wolf).

No doubt the time is coming when to visit Verona and not to find the celebrated lovers present, or to see the pyramids and not to find Napoleon addressing his troops under them will be no visit at all.

Senator Henrik Ameln, representative of Bergen in the Norwegian Parliament, is visiting the United States. Asked if prohibition had been a failure in Norway, he said to the Brooklyn Eagle:

"A failure? That is putting it mildly. I have never known Norway to be worse. Bootleggers were rampant throughout the country. Smuggling could not be controlled because of the peculiar nature of the coast of Norway. There are many small islands which make it very easy for smugglers to conceal themselves and their contraband. The people drank more than ever. They drank whatever they could get, bootleg liquor or home brew. In many cases it was very inferior stuff, sometimes poisonous. Many people died from it, others were blinded or paralyzed. Our hospitals, insane asylums and prisons became crowded. A dreadful crime wave spread over the country. This was the way the prohibition was to better the people."

There is nothing else dreaming like falling out of bed.

The man who wrote the article about the Republican party in the encyclopedia is a candidate for the nomination as United States Senator in Massachusetts. He will surely be beaten by somebody who wrote a good campaign check the last time the party was in action.

Mr. Morgenstern says Mr. Coolidge has brought to the White House only "respectable mediocrity," which looks like trying to find a big word for it.

We can't give Dr. Elliot much for having become a dry at 52. Most people are by that time angels.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

BEST USE OF SOPHIE'S WEALTH.

From the New York World.

SOPHIE, as the good of the community is concerned, the fortune of Sophie Lyons, dishonestly made but left in trust for the education of the children of convicts, has it all over the fortune of almost anybody else, honestly made but left to endow one family. The plight of children with convict parents or with one convict parent is obvious enough, yet little has been done to give them a chance. Perhaps it takes a thief not only to catch a thief but to understand one, and especially to decide where he most needs help. When a man goes to jail leaving a wife and children behind him, the question of support is a tragic one. When a mother leaves her children for a prison, as sometimes happens, the gap in the scheme of the children's existence cannot be filled. Sophie Lyons knew the convict's life and his family, knew that the children got the worst of it and decided to do what she could with her money to provide for them. How could she have put her wealth to better use?

THE NEED OF LEADERSHIP.

ARTHUR CLEVELAND CLARKE is Worth
American Review.

I AM optimistic enough to believe that the world has never before had so many well-wishers for its general peace and prosperity as it possesses today; sincere altruists, deeply concerned for the welfare of all mankind, honestly and unselfishly interested in the perplexing problems which have only a moral claim on their attention. They are the salt of the earth, preserving it from moral decay, and if they could be united, rallied and guided, they could perform wonders. But their great need, the great need of the age, is leadership. Guiding this, what shall our attitude be? Shall we sit supinely by, either yielding to despair or waiting inactively for the advent of the plumed heroes of our dreams who shall set all things right? Shall we rather try to fashion leadership out of the materials we have, and make sure we are not ignoring leaders who need our backing? Shall we not do all we can to give encouragement to the hopes and the aspirations which shall nerve them to active effort? Shall we not use our utmost degree of intelligence in devising opportunities and means of destroying otherwise even and well-governed tempers and dispositions, to say nothing of telephone poles, light poles, plate glass and other public and private property and ornamentations and malodorous, mangled, destroyed human beings, and many instances a predetermined and accomplished suicidal intent, Americans Presented at
Brilliant Court Function

Girls and Matrons Sponsored by Mrs. Kellogg and Friends Among the Nobility Make Their Curtseys Before the Thrones of British Monarchs.

Missouri Young Woman Presented to Royalty

MISS MARY ABERNATHY.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 21.—London's social season of 1924, which is expected to be the busiest and most brilliant since the glorified days before the war, began last night with the regal splendor of a Royal Court held by the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace.

As is the custom with the first court of the season, the guests, numbering about 1000, were drawn mainly from diplomatic and official circles, but there also was a small number from the general circle of society, among them ten American girls and matrons, presented by Ambassador Kellogg, and a few other Americans sponsored by their friends among the nobility.

The band of the King's grenadier guard in their scarlet coats and bearskin played in the quadrangle before the palace doors as the richly gowned and brilliantly uniformed guests entered by carriage and limousine. By the way of the grand staircase, decorated with the fragrant flowers of the English Spring, the guests were conducted to the state apartments.

When all the invited thousand were assembled, the King and Queen, with their courtiers and royal-kings passed through the entire range of the state apartments, the court officials with the white wands of office preceding. Heretofore they have followed the sovereigns. The procession ended in the ballroom where the monarchs took their stand in front of twin thrones on a low dais with their family and court around them.

As they appeared, bands within and without the palace struck up the national anthem, and then the royal-kings passed through the entire range of the state apartments, the court officials with the white wands of office preceding. Heretofore they have followed the sovereigns. The procession ended in the ballroom where the monarchs took their stand in front of twin thrones on a low dais with their family and court around them.

When the last presentation was made the King and Queen withdrew; the bands again played the national anthem and the function, was at an end.

Queen in Gold and Green.
The King wore the uniform of Colonel-in-Chief of the Coldstream Guards. The Queen was attired in a creation of gold tissue, embroidered in gold and diamonds; the train was of green and Indian and kinob, the color scheme being continued in her coronet of emeralds and diamonds and other ornaments.

From over the world women of wealth and social station came to London to attend the court, many of them making trips of thousands of miles for the special purpose of being presented at the Court of St. James, which is an essential requirement for all who would be really "in" in British society.

This court, the first under the Labor Government, lacked none of the traditional color and pomp of the past.

The vogue of shingled hair caused some difficulty among the younger set, for it is no simple matter to fix three feathers and a veil on a closely clipped coiffure. A new invisible bandau recently invented for shingled hair helped to solve the difficulty. Bouquets were fewer than usual this year, feather fans largely taking their place.

Miss Abernathy the daughter of a Kansas City banker. Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—Miss Mary Abernathy is a daughter of Harry T. Abernathy, vice president of the First National Bank. She resides at 2600 Madison avenue. Miss Abernathy was presented at the court of St. James by Mrs. Frank E. Kellogg, wife of the American Ambassador. Mrs. Oscar Robert, daughter of Omar Abernathy, president of the Abernathy Furniture Co., a cousin of Miss Abernathy, arranged for presentation. A relative, Colonel Robert, was military attaché of the American embassy in London. Miss Abernathy left in February for a European tour.

during a visit to New York in 1922, at a dance given by a friend who was with him at Eton. A month ago Miss Murray and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Murray, who are now in Paris, came over for a tour of the continent. A week later Lord Doune also went to Paris. There he met Miss Murray again and the engagement followed.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Miss Barbara Murray is to be an attendant at two weddings here in the next few weeks—that of Miss Barbara Murray to Thomas H. Jones III, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jones Jr. of Delaware, O. The wedding will take place in the autumn. The announcement was made at a tea given by Mrs. Paul E. Mack of Webster Grove, in honor of Miss Eleanor McCormick of Senatobia, Miss, who is visiting here. Pink and white roses decorated the house. The receiving line included, besides the bride and groom, Mrs. Koenig, Miss Koenig and Mrs. Claude McCord. Helene Koenig, young sister of the prospective bride, descended the stairway during the afternoon dressed in bridal gown and carrying a huge bouquet of flowers, which, when separated, were distributed among the guests. Each blossom bore cards with the names of Mr. Jones and his fiancée on them. Serving at the tea table were Miss Margaret Herman, Eleanor Williams, Helen Johnson, Allice Hynes, Margaret Dragoon and Dorothy Brecht. Miss Koenig is a student at Washington University. Mr. Jones is a graduate of the Case School of Engineering in Cleveland and a member of Beta Theta Pi.

His Observations on a Tour of Europe.

By Clinton W. Gilbert.

(Copyright, 1924.)

TWICE the Russian revolution might have spread in Europe; at the beginning, when it was a romantic spectacle and when the war-torn people of Europe might have turned to it as the best hope of the future, and again last year, when Germany was in her most desperate state from the occupation of the Ruhr. Both moments passed. Europe is now on the way toward a slow recovery under capitalism. It will not give up the certainty of better things for the chance of whatever the revolution must offer. The Soviet leaders must demonstrate that their form of government affords a better economic organization of society, one productive of more material and spiritual gains than is that of the rest of Europe and of America, before the dream of the world revolution can be realized. And they must do this with the backward and undeveloped state of Russia.

It is probably too soon to judge the success of Lenin and I was only in Moscow a few days, so that at best I can only give impressions of the men who have been left in control and who have to face the enormous task of making the Russian experiment successful. That is, demonstrating that it is a movement which has contributed something to the well-being of the human race. Whether one admires him or not, I think it will be conceded that Lenin was a great man.

Stalin has no office. He owes his power to the fact that he is secretary of the communist party. At the party is ruled by an Executive Committee, he is virtually executive secretary of the party. This gives him power over places in the organization throughout the country. He has the power which a political boss would have in America, if a political party in America exercised the same control of the Government in America as the communist party does of the Government in Russia. There appears to be nothing striking or impressive about him. He makes few speeches, and they are not remarkable. He is rather inaccessable. He shrinks, it is said, even from having his photograph taken. There is a little, you see, of the party boss' unobtrusiveness about him.

Kamenieff, they say, is also a good politician, with a strong hold upon the party, a friendly person and natural compromiser of personal relations. The kind of man who is sure to be in any government, but not likely to be the head of it. Zinovieff has more passion and fire, a gift of oratory surpassing that of the others. One of my friends, an acute observer of the Russian Government, described him as a "flame." All in all, they strike me as what are known in American political affairs as good "regulars," rather than as inspired leaders.

sociation, American Legion, Federation of Women's Clubs, Southampton and South Forest Park Improvement Associations. Resolutions of the West End Business Men's Association and those of the Tower Grove Heights Association, printed in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, were presented.

G. F. A. Brueggeman, architect, said the City Plan Commission, a body of experts, had shaped the Plaza plan, which was a factor in the success of the bond issue, and that before the election the Court House Plaza site had not been questioned.

Sidney Schiele, real estate man, said it was the belief of real estate experts that the city should lose no time in buying the strip fronting on Twelfth, needed to complete the Plaza Courthouse site.

He expressed surprise at Wade's attitude, saying he had always known Wade as on the side of advancement and civic improvement. He suggested that the old Courthouse be made a public museum like Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

"We didn't show the people a picture of sewers, or water mains, in the bond issue campaign," Schiele said. "We showed the Plaza, and that was what sold the bond issue to the people. If the Plaza is not built as the people directed it, why have elections?"

Eugene Hale, lawyer, urged that the site question be not "locked" as was the Free Bridge location.

Urgent Need Argued.
Circuit Judge John W. Calhoun argued the urgent need of a new Courthouse, to house new Judges who are needed to bring the Circuit Court more nearly up to its peak. "Fourteen of our 18 Judges favor the Plaza site," he said, "but we all say, build the new Courthouse at once." He said the proposed Broadway site was opposite a power house on one side and a garage on the other, promising little diminution of the present noise.

John F. Queeny, chemical manufacturer and owner of the Southern Hotel, spoke for a Broadway site, and argued that the original Plaza plan had contemplated putting the Memorial Building on the block now proposed for the Courthouse, as the Memorial item included that block, among others, as a possible site for building. He read a letter from John H. Gundlach, opposing removal of the Courthouse from the river district. He said his own purpose, in acquiring the Southern Hotel, was to help South St. Louis.

Wade, in his rebuttal argument, said the need for a new building was admitted, but that a site at Twelfth and Market might become as noisy as the present location.

"If you want to get entirely away from noise," he said, "put the Courthouse in O'Fallon Park." He argued that the names of the organizations endorsing the Plaza site showed that the organizations were West End bodies, trying to build up their own section of the city, and heedless of the interest of the river district.

Copies of Book Distributed.
Copies of a handsomely printed book, entitled "Look Up and Down the River," were distributed by the Broadway advocates. The quotation was from the speech made by Fred W. Lehmann at the Melbourn Hotel dinner April 2.

A downtown map, showing the proposed Broadway location, and editorial articles from the Post-Dispatch, Globe-Democrat and Times, were included.

The volume of applause throughout the hearing, favored the Plaza site. About 250 persons were at the hearing, held in the Board of Aldermen chamber.

Chairman Lidel of the special site committee said the committee might not meet for several days, as some of the members were to be out of the city. The other members of the special committee, all of whom were present, were A. H. Niederluecke, Wiebe, Lange and Watts.

Robbers Killed and Loot Recovered
By the Associated Press.
WINNIPEG, Man., May 21.—A volley of bullets from the automatic of a pursuing force of detectives yesterday ended the career of Frank Martin of Winnipeg, who a few minutes previously had held up the Goulding and Portage Avenue branch of the Bank of Montreal. The loot of approximately $2000 in bank notes, which he had secreted in his clothing, was recovered. Martin sped away in a stolen automobile, followed by detectives and a motorcycle police squad. He kept up a running fire which ended when a bullet struck him in the head.

development, and, as a matter of fact, the site and design of the Wilson Dam were acquired by one of the Southern power companies for this purpose. The property was donated to the Government for the sum of one dollar, during the war, after $500,000 had been spent on it.

Ford's bid was not first. It was merely the most spectacular. Mr. Ford surely is first in the imagination and emotions of his countrymen, however, and he will deserve to rank as the super-buyer of the buyers of history, if he buys Muscle Shoals for what he offers.

For the United States will have sold the birthright of millions, as some one has said, for a mess of pottage.

THE FOUR-BIT COFFEE POT.

I MET Red Hannigan when I was riding through the Sierra National Forest with a supervisor of the Forest Service. He was a tall, rangy, indurated man with brick colored hair and a look in his eyes born of years spent in the temple of the trees. A vast enthusiasm for the work of the service was his; so whole-hearted this passion, that he had been content to work as a ranger in the big timber along the Sierras for many years, and at the starvation wage the Government pays its protectors of the national domain.

We stumbled onto Red Hannigan in a little clearing up around the 7000-foot level, beyond which the white saw teeth of the Kaiser Peaks lift into the blue. He had been establishing the summer's free camping grounds for the tourists that soon would come trooping up from the valleys. He rode up to his superior, my companion, made his report in two dozen words and then the forest swallowed him up.

"Fine man, Red Hannigan," commented the supervisor when we were alone. "But he's got a temper as fiery as his hair. Then he gave me the tale of the four-bit coffee pot to illustrate his comment."

It seems that not long before an old friend of Red's sifted over the divide from Nevada, and dropped into his camp up beyond Cascade. The visitor was a wizened little prospector off the desert whom Red hadn't seen since the days they tramped Nevada's silver hills together. Red decided the meeting demanded a celebration, and that celebration should take the form of a deer hunt.

The reunited pals saddled horses, slung their pack over a mule and set out for the deer country Red knew so well, down along the fearsome rim of King's Canyon. They played in hard luck from the very moment of starting.

"First it would be the pack saddle slipping on a narrow trail," the supervisor continued his yarn. "Then Red's horse picked up a stone and went lame. Then it came on to rain—one of these regular rim-fire thunderstorms we get in the Sierras during midsummer. It didn't look as if Red and his little friend were going to have such a picnic after all."

"Red pushed on along the trail to a camp site he already had decided upon. He's that kind of man; once let him make up his mind to do a thing and hell and high water can't stop him. They arrived at the camp site before dark and Red scrambled round to find dry wood while the man from Nevada opened up the pack. Finally ly Red got his fire going on the lee side of a log. "Wind was high, but the wood was wet, and Red had a sweet time getting his fire going. Every time he'd get down to give a blow on the flame, a back-draught would throw ashes in his face. Red's temper began to climb—particularly when every time he looked up from nursing the fire he'd see that little woodchuck friend of his sitting with his pipe in his mouth and looking sort of sympathetic. Sympathy is something that always gets Red Hannigan's goat; he doesn't want it from any man.

"Finally the bacon was crisp and the coffee was on the boil. Just as Red reached for the coffee pot a stick upon which it rested broke beneath it; not tipped over and the coffee put out the fire.

"Red leaped for that coffee pot, grabbed it and threw it as far as he could see down the canyon. Then up jumped his little friend, made a dive for his rifle and drilled three holes through the bottom of the pot at 50 yards.

"Why, you ding-donged little son of a wood rat!" Red was furious. "Why're you shooting holes through the only coffee pot within 25 miles of where we stand?"

"But Red," the little friend whinnied, "you don't suppose for a minute I'm going to sit quietly by here and see a hot old four-bit coffee pot make small of my old side-partner?"

HANCOCK OPPOSES K. K. K.
Candidate Also Criticizes Laws
"Based on Moral Grounds."
E. G. Hancock of 829 Rutger street, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor, today announced that he was opposed to the Ku Klux Klan, and also to all legislation "based on moral grounds."

"I believe that the Ku Klux Klan movement is but an echo of the prohibition movement," he said, "and the prohibition movement was a echo of the women's suffrage movement, and the women's movement is but an echo of the first political reform movement. I have never known any permanent benefits to have resulted from any of these movements."

He also said he favored the repeal of the Volstead act.

ARMSTRONG, Mo.—The City Marshal of this city detected a man in the act of robbing the Snoddy general store here. He fired his shotgun and shot away the man's watch chain and a button from his vest. The watch chain, which was torn in several pieces, and the button were found on the floor of the store after the would-be burglar had escaped.

"WE WERE ALL STEALING FROM THE KLAN" FUNDS

Former Employee of Organization So Testifies at Peddy - Mayfield Senate Contest Hearing.

"EVANS HAD 11 STATES AS HIS LITTLE GRAFT" Swears $25,000 Was Drawn for Use in Texas, but Klan Cashier Denies All Such Charges.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, May 21.—J. Q. Jett of White Path, Ill., employed in the investment department of the Ku Klux Klan, from the time of its organization up to last April, appeared as a witness before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections yesterday, in the hearing of the Peddy contest for Mayfield's seat.

Jett, who formerly was the husband of the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, one of those chiefly responsible for building up the Klan, volunteered the information that "we were all stealing from the organization, that 'Mr. Evans' had 11 states as his little graft," and that $25,000 had been drawn from the bank to "educate" Texas klansmen to write the name of Earle B. Mayfield on the ballots which elected him to the United States Senate.

Jett, who testified under a volley of objections from Mayfield's counsel, said Representative William D. Upshaw, leader of the dry forces of the House, "was paid by the Klan up here." What he was paid for the witness did not say. By unanimous consent, the committee made no attempt to go into Upshaw's affairs.

Denial by Klan Cashier. Subsequently N. N. Furney, cashier of the Klan, specifically and generally denied all the charges that Jett made. Mayfield's counsel drew from Furney that the Imperial headquarters at Atlanta had made a complaint that resulted in Jett's arrest. Whereupon Luther Nickels, representing George E. B. Peddy, Republican, who wants Mayfield's seat, was able to show that, despite his arrest, the witness had not been indicted.

Jett asserted that, although paid a nominal salary of $40 a week as an investigator, he made "from $500 to $1000."

"I will give you an illustration," he testified. "I went to Tampa to get an affidavit from a girl whose evidence would, if she was to give a newspaper story to a reporter, look bad for an official. I did not know what was going on. I turned in. I know I spent $1500 on that trip. Suppose I went down and was able to accomplish for $500 of that, don't you see?"

"You are telling the committee that you are a common thief?" suggested Senator Neely (Dem.) of West Virginia.

"We were all stealing," Jett replied. "It was well known to every official in the Klan from Col. Simmons down. We were all stealing. If you want to put it that way. There was a propaganda department which was under the supervision of Mr. Clarke and Mrs. Tyler, at the time Clarke was Imperial wizard. They had shipped Simmons out and had turned over to Mr. Evans so many states for him to graft on."

"That was his little graft—eleven states. All the money that came out of eleven states went to Mr. Evans for his participation in different things. The propaganda department got the rest of the money outside of what went to the national organization."

It was in the fall of 1932, Jett said, prior to the election of Mayfield, that he had been hanging about the office of the Imperial wizard, when he was sent to accompany Furney to the bank. Evans was in the Imperial wizard's office with a delegation from Texas. Asked about the conference that took place, he said:

"Memorandum for $25,000." "They held it there in Mr. Evans' room in my presence. Mr. Evans gave a memorandum for $25,000 to be turned over to this Texas delegation to be used to educate klansmen to write Senator Mayfield's name on the ballots—to send men to the different little klans."

He explained that it had been decided in council first that Mayfield's name could be stamped on, but that afterward "we found they could not do that," which led to the plan to send out men to "educate" the klansmen. He said they got into a car, went to the bank, got a bag of money, and that subsequently he saw Evans take money out of the bag, wrap it in a paper and lay it on his desk.

Earlier in 1932, Jett said, he had been present at a conversation between Evans, Mrs. Tyler and Clarke in regard to the campaign. "Evans was doing the talking," the witness explained. "He told Mrs. Tyler it would be worth $100,000; that she could afford to give $100,000 from the propaganda department, to bring about the election of a Senator, where Texas was the only chance of electing a Senator and have him up here in Washington, and I think there was a communication there from Congressman William D. Upshaw, who was paid by the Klan up here." "Strike It From the Record!" Cries of "Strike it from the record" greeted the mention of Upshaw's name, and this portion of the testimony was ordered stricken out. Furney denied that he had ever gone to the bank with Jett for money or that $25,000 ever had been drawn for the purpose indicated. He also denounced as untrue the charges that officials were grafting on the Klan. He conceded that he had a cashier's account which sometimes ran as high as $25,000 a week to meet expenditures, where it was not desired to have the Klan's connection a matter of record.

A request for information as to the number of klansmen in Texas brought an objection from W. F. Seaburn that the Klan, being a secret organization, never would disclose its membership. The committee ruled that Furney must answer. His reply was: "I don't know."

Use of Klan Money. It was impossible for any Klan money to be used at any time for any purpose without his knowledge, Furney told the committee. Chairman Spencer (Rep.) of Missouri at once interjected an inquiry as to whether the Klan had expended any money in Texas, directly or indirectly, in the election of Senator Mayfield. It was then Furney replied with an emphatic "No, sir."

J. E. McQuinn, auditor and assistant Klan cashier, was sweeping in his denial of the expenditure of any money in the Mayfield campaign.

"Is there anything in your records or in any papers of your organization," asked Neely, "that shows that the organization spent any money in the Mayfield campaign in Texas either during the primary or general elections?"

"No, sir," McQuinn answered. "The organization did not spend a cent in those elections."

Counsel for Mayfield enlisted the proceedings at adjournment by asserting that it was the purpose of Peddy to prevent an early closing of the investigation. The charge was made, that Clarke's counsel wanted to go upon a "fishing" trip into the records of the Klan to see what could be disclosed detrimental to that organization.

Repeated appeals were made to the committee by Mayfield's counsel to restrict the attorneys for Peddy in their examination into the affairs of the Klan to matters relating to the Mayfield election. Despite the admonitions of Chairman Spencer to refrain from a general inquiry into Klan affairs, counsel for Peddy continued to delve into accounts of the Klan and would up by calling for further records.

Efforts to get into the record of his disclosures the number of members of the Klan in Texas were frustrated by Mayfield's counsel, but Klan officials were permitted to testify that there were "between 150 and 175 Klan organizations in the State and 'may be' more."

During the examination of Jett, Klan officials who were to testify were required by the committee to leave the room. A number of persons whose names are known in connection with Klan matters were identified by Jett, including John D. Maher, who was employed, the witness said, to shadow Gaston B. Means, when the latter was inquiring into the Klan activities.

"No Adjusting of Juggling." McQuinn told the committee that he had not been any "adjusting" of the Klan books to cover over-expenditures of the organization in Texas, but that it was the practice of the Imperial Palace to return to the Klan organizations the several states one-third of certain money collected from them. This had been done as far as certain states, he said. Certain entries upon the Klan books after a firm of expert accountants had gone over them, he said, had been made to write in interest and other items which the accountants thought should be carried. There had been no purpose.

WETS WILL HAVE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Independent Ticket Planned in Case None of Those in Race Declares Himself on the Issue.

WOULD PREFER TO BACK PARTY MAN

Dissatisfied With Those Known Personally to Be Wet, but Who Fear to Take Public Stand.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

If none of the candidates for the Democratic and Republican nominations for Governor in the August primary publicly declares himself "wet," the Missouri Branch, Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, purposes to put in the race in the general election campaign a "wet" candidate on an independent ticket. This was announced today by former Judge Henry S. Priest, president of the association.

Priest avoids terming the issue "wet and dry." He prefers "Constitutionalists and Revolutionists," and while the proposed independent movement extends to the fundamental principle of restoration of State sovereignty and opposition to centralization of power in the Federal Government, its practical appeal to the masses in the final analysis is "wet and dry."

Preference of the Association. Undoubtedly the association would prefer a candidate of State-wide acquaintance for either the Republican or Democratic nomination on a straight-out "wet" platform, but as the campaign progresses the probability that there will be such a candidate decreases. In fact, as was told in the Post-Dispatch two weeks ago, the probability practically vanished when E. E. McQuinn, Springfield newspaper publisher, announced he would not be a candidate for the Republican nomination. As it stands there are candidates who will appeal to the "wets" more than any other candidate.

Organized opponents of prohibition are dissatisfied with candidates known to them to be personally wet but too fearful politically to take a public stand.

Their impatient with Senator Reed two years ago has caused them to insist upon a direct fight on their issue. The Association supported Reed vigorously. They knew he was "wet" and they looked for some activity by him, but they were disappointed. Reed was elected and not once since his election has he exhibited the slightest official interest in the prohibition question.

"It was recently said the 'wets' would have no candidate in the gubernatorial race," Priest said today. "The classification of 'wets and dries' is a misnomer. It is the Constitutionalists and the Revolutionists. The Constitutionalists are in the field and with decisive influence."

Priest's View of Issue. "The dominant issues in the coming campaign ought to be and will be: Liberty versus slavery; enlightened morality versus corrupt hypocrisy; Christianity of Love versus the false Christianity of force; the renaissance of State sovereignty versus the centralization of all political as well as moral control in the Federal Government."

"Upon these issues many thoughtful men have very positive convictions which they intend to assert irrespective of former party affiliations. In their minds, upon the determination of these issues depends the happiness and perpetuity of our institutions. Those who appreciate for liberty against oppression have the story of the organized society. It was the country waged by the founders of this masterful republic. Those who appreciate for self-denial, laziness and blood it cost and its tremendous triumph are not willing to surrender to the tumbling tumult of passing passion."

"If neither of the great political parties is courageous enough to espouse these great principles, a new party—a party of Liberty under the Constitution as transmitted to us—will do so and put candidates on their own behalf in the field."

Inspection of Klan Records. Additional records of the Klan are to be brought to Washington under an agreement reached by inspection by the committee. The proposal had been under consideration to permit attorneys for Peddy to go to the Atlanta Klan headquarters to explore the records for any evidence of contributions by the order to the Mayfield campaign fund that counsel for both sides agreed that the proper course would be to examine the books here. That decision was said to be satisfactory to Klan officials.

No hearing was held by the committee today because of the absence of important witnesses.

COURT RAKES HUSBAND NAMED WITH HARRY THAW'S SISTER

"Many Slimy Creatures in Form of Men," Jurist Says Referring to Modica.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 21.—Severely condemning Emanuel Victor Modica, Supreme Court Justice Benedict, in Brooklyn, yesterday allowed his wife, Mrs. Madeline Helen Modica $50 a week alimony and $500 counsel fees in her suit for divorce, in which she named the Countess Roger de Perigny, sister of Harry K. Thaw, as co-respondent.

"There are slimy creatures who in the form of men, but without any many attributes, first fascinate foolish women of the class of idle rich and then fatten on their despicable ascendancy, relying on the fear of disclosure and disgrace which attends wrongdoing," the Judge wrote. "If the facts stated in the voluminous affidavits submitted to me on this contested motion are proved to be true, this is such a case."

"It is not pertinent on this motion to consider any charges as to professional misconduct on the part of any attorney connected with the case, nor to inquire into the motives of the plaintiff in instituting the other action for the alleged alienation of the defendant's affections. All that I shall do in advance of the trial is to grant this motion."

Mrs. Modica has pending against the Countess de Perigny an action to recover $500,000 damages for the alleged alienation of Modica's affections. He is a chauffeur.

THAW FURNISHES BAIL ON NEW YORK INDICTMENTS

Appears in Court in Gump Case After Few Hours of Absolute Freedom.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 21.—Harry K. Thaw was held in bail again today after a brief hour of absolute freedom. He pleaded not guilty yesterday to two indictments charging him with kidnapping Frederick Gump Jr. of Kansas City in 1914, and with second degree assault, and was held in $10,000 bail.

Soon after he left the court another indictment, charging conspiracy to take Gump, then 16 years old, out of the jurisdiction of the court after the alleged attack was discovered, was returned and pleaded not guilty to this also. Bail will be arranged today. The civil action in the Gump case was settled out of court last January.

There are indications that Gump, who is married and living in California, would not come here to testify against Thaw, in which event it would be impossible to try the case.

Liberty of thought, liberty of action, liberty of diversion, liberty of Christianity, liberty of religion, that harms no other's natural rights is the only liberty that can preserve a country from revolution and the only thing that can assure complete freedom. A hollow tree, a crust of bread and liberty is the preferential thought of men who deserve it. There can be neither piety nor morality without liberty."

All Candidates Straddling Issue. There are two candidates for the Republican nomination, Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Lloyd of St. Louis and Sam A. Baker of Jefferson City, formerly State Superintendent of Schools. There are four for the Democratic nomination—Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Buncombe, George H. Moore of St. Louis, Floyd E. Jacobs of Kansas City and State Senator William R. Painter of Carrollton. Neither has made any definite statement as to his attitude toward prohibition.

As it now stands with all the candidates bidding for both the "wet" and the "dry" vote it is probable that most of the "wet" vote on the Republican side would go to Lloyd and the "dry" vote to Baker. It might be expected that on the Democratic side the bulk of the "wet" vote would be divided between Moore and Jacobs and the "dry" vote between Nelson and Painter.

The greater part of the opposition to prohibition in Missouri is in Republican communities. That is, St. Louis and most of the counties in prohibition elections have voted "wet" are Republican. Conversely, the counties which have voted "dry" are Democratic. However, the minority on each side is sufficiently strong in each community to frighten the regular office-seekers, who have observed in the past that political straddling pays and who hopes it will again.

It will be possible after the primary for the anti-prohibitionists to get a candidate on the general election ballot by petition.

JORDAN DENOUNCES INTOXICATED DRIVERS

Hospital Head Also Lays Accident Increase in Part to Irresponsible Youths.

Many automobile accidents are caused by intoxicated drivers, and driving of machines by "irresponsible youths whose lack of mature judgment is balanced by their enlarged egos," has led to many more accidents, says Hospital Commissioner Jordan, in his report for the fiscal year ending April 12, made public today.

Surgical facilities of city hospital have been greatly strained by the number of serious injuries caused by automobiles. There were 16,034 patients at the institution during the fiscal period.

"The large number of automobile accidents," the Hospital Commissioner asserted, "are partly attributable to alcohol. The difficulty the law imposes in making cases against such offenders during the specific phrase 'while driving' has let this menace go unchecked. Another prolific cause of accidents is the habit of placing high powered automobiles at the disposal of young drivers under 25 years of age who think they are daring drivers, but are only reckless."

The report points out what Jordan considers hurtful overcrowding of all city institutions. He states that there are 1309 more patients at the City Sanitarium than it can properly handle. The report recommends increased facilities at the sanitarium, at City Hospital No. 2 and praises the enlargement work being done at Koch Hospital for tuberculosis patients.

FUND USED TO GREASE THE WHEELS, SENATOR CHARGES

Howell Opposes Confirmation of Nominations to Farm Loan Board.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 21.—An account maintained by former Chairman Charles E. Lobdell of the Farm Loan Board in a local bank was used "at times as a slush fund," Senator Howell (Rep. of Nebraska) charged in the Senate today in continuing his opposition to confirmation of four pending nominations to the board.

Howell explained that by a slush fund he meant a "fund used to grease the wheels so as to smooth things, a fund expended whenever you wanted to be generous with those who could be helpful to your objects."

"This fund was so used at times," he continued, "hold such action should be severely determined when taken by Government instrumentality."

Howell obtained the floor as soon as the Senate convened and resumed his elaboration of criticism yesterday against the board. Selection of Lobdell as fiscal agent with a salary of $25,000, loose handling of public money and misapplication of funds were included in the charges he filed.

Favorable report has been made by the Senate Banking Committee on all four of the nominees, who are Lewis J. Pettibohn, Kansas; Elmer S. Landes, Ohio; Merton L. Corey, Nebraska and Edward E. Jones, Pennsylvania.

SCULLIN WINS CASE ON WAR CONTRACT FUND

Comptroller Rules Steel Company Will Not Have to Refund $669,748 to U. S.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Scullin Steel Co., of 6706 Manchester avenue, St. Louis, will not be compelled to refund $669,748 charged against it by the Federal Government because of alleged overpayment on war contracts, Comptroller General J. R. McCarl decided yesterday.

In an opinion which will reach the company today, McCarl stated that the first contract which Harry Scullin, president of the company, made with the War Department to supply shells at 4 cents a unit, was merely a financing contract, and that the second contract, stipulating 4½ cents a pound, a price set by the War Industries Board, was the real contract. The Treasury originally held that the first contract was binding.

The Scullin case is the largest one of its sort that McCarl has decided so far. There are other contested contracts involving a total of $149,000,000.

OLE HANSON ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF HORSE STEALING

War-Time Mayor of Seattle, Now of Los Angeles, Says Animal Is His Property.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 21.—Ole Hanson, war-time Mayor of Seattle and now a Los Angeles real estate operator, is ready to defend himself against a charge of horse-stealing filed in Pasadena justice court yesterday by Clarence W. Basten of Sierra Madre, a suburb after his arrest Hanson was released on $1000 bond.

"I am charged with stealing my own horse," he said. "When I came here from Seattle I shipped five ponies, one a strawberry roan named Golden. Soon afterwards someone stole Golden, and for 18 months we searched for the animal. Then, last Saturday, I saw the horse in a vacant lot at Sierra Madre. I called him by name and he pulled up his stake and came to me."

"I sought Mr. Basten, the purported owner, and he told me he had bought Golden from a man named Flintridge, who had purchased it from a Mexican, who said he got it from a boy. He turned the horse over to me, but asked my aid in recovering the money he had paid for it. Later, apparently he changed his mind, for the next thing I knew he had sworn to a complaint charging me with stealing the horse."

STEEL EXPERTS GIVEN DINNER

Fifty-five St. Louis members of the American Institute of Steel Construction were guests of a dinner at Hotel Chase last night in honor of Charles F. Abbott and Lee H. Miller, structural steel experts from the institute's headquarters in New York.

Abbott and Miller, in talks, said the purpose of the institute is to assist in devising methods of improving strength of steel. It is planned to hold conferences similar to that of last night two or three times a year in St. Louis hereafter, Abbott said.

W. M. Wood, president of the Mississippi Valley Structural Steel Co., also was on the speaking program. The St. Louis institute members are connected with various structural steel plants in St. Louis and vicinity.

STEEL EXPERTS GIVEN DINNER

New York Men Guests of Local Institute Members.

Fifty-five St. Louis members of the American Institute of Steel Construction were guests at a dinner at Hotel Chase last night in honor of Charles F. Abbott and H. H. Miller, structural steel experts from the institute's headquarters in New York.

Abbott and Miller, in talks, said the purpose of the institute is to let in devising methods of improving strength of steel. It is planned to hold conferences similar to that of last night two or three times a year in St. Louis.

W. M. Wood, president of the Mississippi Valley Structural Steel Institute, also was on the speaking program. The St. Louis institute members are connected with various structural steel plants in St. Louis vicinity.

STOCKHOLDERS BACK SINCLAIR

Men Approve His Negotiations for Teapot Dome.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Stockholders of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation today rejected a resolution expressing confidence in Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board, in connection with his negotiations for the Teapot Dome oil leases. They pledged him their support to the end.

Sinclair told the gathering that the oil was being consumed than produced in the United States, an indication that the oil business was coming into its own. Gasoline consumption, he estimated, had gone up 10 to 15 per cent over last year.

FIGHT ON NOMINATION FOR SHERIFF FORESEEN

Repetition of Contest of Four Years Ago Over Candidacy of McKelvey and Schuler.

A bitter political contest for the Republican nomination for Sheriff between the party factions headed by Mayor Kiel and Collector Koeln, a repetition of the fight for Sheriff in 1920 when the Mayor's candidacy was worsted, is foreseen by politicians following the announcement by Sheriff Strodtman that he would not again seek the office.

Strodtman's decision to remain out of the race limits the contest to James N. McKelvey, Director of Public Safety and Anton Schuler, City Marshal, both appointees of Mayor Kiel, unless some unexpected candidate should file, and even then it is not probable that the present line-up in the matter of party organization support would be changed.

Lineup of the Faction.

McKelvey, according to present indications, will have the support of the Mayor, Circuit Clerk Schmoll and probably from 22 to 24 members of the City Committee. Schuler will have the backing of Koeln and from four to six members of the committee. That is about the committee lineup four years ago between Schmoll and the late Sheriff Mohrstadt, who with Koeln's influence obtained the nomination.

So far neither the Mayor nor Koeln has publicly stated his preference, but as Schuler filed only after consulting Koeln, and McKelvey has prepared for circulation of a printed indorsement by the Mayor of his record, there is no question in the minds of the politicians where the factional leaders will land. With the Mayor in support of McKelvey will be Nat Goldstein and Henry L. Weeke, and others of the faction.

McKelvey for a time was considered a candidate for Sheriff in 1920 but withdrew from the race at the instance of the Mayor and in the interest of Schmoll, which placed an obligation on the Mayor and Schmoll to support him this year.

When Sheriff Mohrstadt died more than a year ago, Schuler sought appointment to fill the office, as also did McKelvey. Koeln urged the appointment of Mrs. Mohrstadt and at his request Schuler withdrew his application, thus placing an obligation on Koeln to support him at this time. McKelvey refused to withdraw and Gov. Hyde, rather than choose between the Kiel and Koeln factions, appointed Strodtman.

Close Contest Indicated.

There are several elements which will enter into the contest in Schuler's favor, sufficient to make the outcome of the contest of considerable doubt, notwithstanding the seemingly strong lead the committee support will give McKelvey.

Schuler resides in the Sixth Ward, which he represents on the committee, one of the strongest Republican wards in St. Louis and one with a large negro vote. It is in South St. Louis, where the so-called German vote is heavy, and Schuler is of German descent.

In addition to this McKelvey's official actions, formerly as Building Commissioner and more recently as Director of Public Safety, have resulted many times in adverse criticism of his manner of conducting his office.

ANOTHER SEIZURE OF LIQUOR
AT THE KOERNER SALOON

A. E. Koerner, Proprietor, Already Facing One Charge, Ordered to Report at Federal Building.

The Koerner saloon at 408 Washington avenue, for the third time in a year, figured in a liquor law violation yesterday afternoon, when Federal prohibition agents raided the place and found a case of whisky and two half barrels of beer.

Ernest A. Koerner, proprietor, was convicted of selling liquor some time ago and was sentenced to six months in jail by Federal Judge Faris. Doctors testified that Koerner was a sufferer from diabetes and that a jail term might prove fatal. On their statements Koerner has not been called upon to begin his sentence.

His son, Arthur E. Koerner, who took over the business, next was arrested on a charge of liquor selling. His case is set for May 27. After the raid yesterday the Federal Building. Additional charges may be placed against him.

Approval for Antinarcotic Plank.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Coolidge was said by Richmond P. Hobson, president of the International Antinarcotic Educational Association, to have approved at a conference held with him today the insertion in the Republican national platform of a plank which would declare: "Recognizing in narcotic addiction a grave peril to America and to the human race, we pledge ourselves regardless of politics vigorously to take against it all legitimate and honorable measures for education, for control and for suppression at home and abroad."

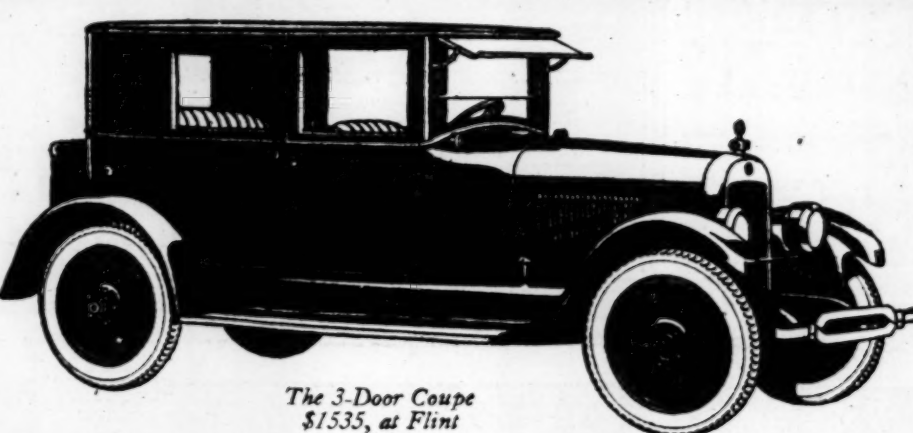

Hobson said he had received assurances from Democratic leaders that a similar plank would be incorporated in the Democratic national platform.

EIGHTH AND LOCUST - TO ST. CHARLES SAINT LOUIS

Only parents know how children go through shoes in vacation time!

ONLY they know the results of the constant racing and running—the climbing, hiking and baseball playing—the amazing all-day-long activity of young feet!

There's no better proof of the wearing quality of Keds than the fact that these shoes are selected by millions of parents when they buy vacation footwear for boys and girls today. More Keds are now worn than any other brand of canvas rubber-soled shoes made.

Keds soles are made of an unusually tough, long-wearing rubber grown on our own plantations in Sumatra. With these soles, uppers of specially selected strong canvas are combined, and a complete system of reinforcements added to produce the sturdiest sports shoes that can be made.

Keds, of course, are not only the ideal vacation shoes for boys and girls but are the leading shoes for sports and athletics throughout the country. They are a complete line of canvas rubber-soled shoes, varying in price according to grade, size and style, from $1.25 to $4.50.

It is important to remember that all canvas rubber-soled shoes are not Keds. Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company.

They come in a wide range of styles and prices. But every pair of Keds is built to give longer wear and better service. And every Keds shoe has the name Keds on it.

If you want the standard shoes for sports of every kind—if you want shoes for a boy who seems to "go through" everything—if you want the longest-wearing quality your money can buy—look for the name Keds!

MAN GOES TO PRISON AFTER 400 ARRESTS

Ernest Miller at Last Sent to Penitentiary to Begin Eight-Year Term.

Ernest Miller, alias Bergadine, and Hugh Brindley, overdue to begin serving sentences at Leavenworth prison for stealing from an interstate shipment at Moline, Mo., were arrested yesterday in the office of their attorney, whom they were consulting with a view to getting an extension of liberty to enable them to attend to their affairs. They were started last night to prison, where Miller is to serve eight years and Brindley seven years.

Following their conviction 18 months ago in the United States District Court, both appealed, but the Court of Appeals upheld the lower court, and a mandate was issued for the two to surrender themselves May 10. They did not surrender themselves and deputy marshals have been looking for them. Miller had been arrested about 400 times for questioning, but had never been convicted in the State courts. He was twice convicted in the Federal Court and served one term of two years. Judge Farris in sentencing him said that in view of Miller's record it gave him great pleasure to send him to prison.

Brindley was only 17 years old when he assisted Miller with the robbery. Since his conviction, he has worked steadily and has "gone straight," R. Wayne Ely, assistant United States Attorney, who prosecuted him, recently went to see President Coolidge in his behalf and has hopes of a pardon or parole.

Ray Renard, Egan gangster, and William Reinhardt, convicted at the same time, are serving terms of seven years each.

ADVERTISMENT Lift Out Your Corns ICE-MINT THE NEW DISCOVERY ENDS ALL Foot Troubles

This new discovery, made from a Japanese product, is certainly a wonder. The way it draws out inflammation from a pair of swollen, burning, aching feet. It takes the soreness right out, then the corn or callous shrivels and lifts off.

Place corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful. Just think! Not one bit of pain while applying Ice-Mint or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

You will never have to cut a corn again and run the risk of blood poison. Ray goodness in your old corns, blisters and burning feet for that pair of shoes is sure to be a "gone" if it ever does the magic touch of Ice-Mint.

It impacts such a delightful, soothing, cooling feeling to the feet that you will sigh with relief.

Ice-Mint is the real Japanese secret for fine, healthy little feet. It prevents foot odors and keeps them sweet and comfortable. It is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes.

Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-Mint and give your poor, suffering, tired, swollen feet the treat of their lives. It costs little and there is nothing better.

LOSING NEARLY A POUND A DAY EATING A NEW KIND OF BREAD

This Woman's Experience One of Many Similar Successes with New, Delightful Method of Reducing Weight

WALLACE

IF YOU want to get thin—eat bread! You can, thanks to Wallace, for a new bread of special formula offers stout people a safe and sane, scientific way of combating overweight. It's not a fad, but a food; real bread that you'll like. It pleases the palate. It nourishes. But it will not make fat—no matter how much you eat.

Fat may have long been your misfortune, but from now on it is a fault. The lady in the picture once weighed forty pounds more. Nothing she had ever tried —not even drastic diets—ever conquered the condition until she gave Wallace Bread a fair trial. Within two weeks of the time Mrs. Snowden began eating Wallace Bread regularly she started to lose weight. The reduction continued. The superfluous flesh thus disposed of did not return. In a little over five weeks, forty pounds of burdensome fat had gone.

Many report success in reducing this new, easy way. Reducing three and four pounds in one week is commonly reported. Some lose at a more rapid rate. It's no effort, for Wallace bread is actually delicious; it has a nut-like flavor everyone likes. See table of weights for reductions to be accomplished with Wallace Bread. You needn't be fat if you like bread.

STUDENT, WAS REMOVED IN AN OPERATION LAST NIGHT AT ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL, AND THE PATIENT IS ON THE WAY TO RECOVERY.

The pen point lodged in a lung after the boy, who had a severe cold, placed it in his mouth at school to wet it before inserting it in a penholder. He was seized with a fit of coughing and the pen point was carried into his throat. An X-ray examination disclosed it lodged in a lung, and Earl was hurried at once to St. Luke's.

An operation was attempted Friday, but the patient coughed so much, thus shifting the position of the object, that it was decided to wait until he had recovered from the cold. Last night his condition was considered favorable for the OPERATION, WHICH WAS THEN CARRIED THROUGH SUCCESSFULLY.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Roy Carter, said Earl had misunderstood instructions to wet all new pen points before inserting them in ink, so that the fluid would adhere better. The intention was that all points should first be attached to the holder. Charles Stadman, principal, has issued orders that in no other case shall pen points be carried to the mouth.

BELLEVILLE COUNCIL
FORBIDS K. K. K. PICNIC

Police Instructed to Use Force if Necessary to Prevent Memorial Day Affair.

A resolution forbidding Ku Klux Klan parades in Belleville and instructing the police to use force if necessary to prevent the holding of a Klan picnic scheduled for Memorial day, May 30, on a farm within the corporate limits of that city, was adopted yesterday by the Belleville City Council.

The Klan organizations of East St. Louis and Belleville had announced their intention of staging one of the largest conclaves in their history, on Memorial day, on a farm at Ogle station on the road between East St. Louis and Belleville.

The resolution was adopted by unanimous vote, but both Mayor Anton and the Aldermen declared they were ignorant of its authorship. It instructed the Mayor and the Sheriff to "prevent and suppress the holding of Ku Klux parades," and defined the Klan as an organization founded "for the purpose of opposing, hampering and annoying the Catholic Church, the Jewish religion, the colored race and other law-abiding and worthy elements in the community."

Further, the resolution states that to hold the Memorial day picnic would "detract from the sacredness and dignity of the day on which flowers are carried to the cemeteries to decorate the graves of the sainted and heroic dead."

In closing, the resolution directed the Mayor to "refuse to grant any permit to the un-American Ku Klux Klan, under any circumstances, for the purpose of holding a Ku Klux picnic for the promulgation and dissemination of Ku Klux doctrine, or the giving of any parade, in the belief that such a demonstration would only serve to inspire and excite counter demonstrations by the citizens wantonly abused and unjustly and outrageously attacked, leading to lawlessness and disorder, if not, indeed, riot and bloodshed."

Mayor Anton today said he has not as yet decided what action he will take to carry out the intention of the resolution.

"My stomach suffering was so severe that I could not have lasted much longer. I did not care so much for myself, but I did care for my three little children who needed a mother's love and care. A cousin in California wrote me about Marr's Wonderful Remedy and I took a course of it. I have since been entirely well. Gray Hair Quickly Goes
Before the Touch of this Clean, Colorless Liquid

The Original Color Perfectly Restored

It seems almost unbelievable that a liquid colorless itself can give gray hair its exact original color.

But in Kolor-Bak, Science has given us just such a liquid and through its remarkable power, hundreds of thousands of people have quickly taken years from their appearance. Many report amazing results in a week.

No matter what the former color was, Kolor-Bak will restore it, and it will give the hair a beautiful natural gloss, renewing life and lustre, and make it soft, beautiful, "young" again.

It gives a cool, refreshing sensation to the scalp—makes it clean and makes it feel clean. It is not sticky, greasy, mussy or unpleasant to use. It is just a clean, colorless liquid which is a proved substitute for the natural pigmentation. It is as easy to use as water.

Kolor-Bak is actually a scalp and hair tonic because of its cleansing, stimulating qualities which promote health and strength—thus aiding Nature to bring about normal conditions of the hair. No need to furnish samples of your hair. The one clean, colorless liquid is for all hair. Several people whose hair was originally of different colors could use the same bottle of Kolor-Bak with equally satisfactory results.

"RACING JUDGES ARE NOT INFALLIBLE," DERBY OFFICIAL SAYS

NEW YORK, May 21.—Jim Barnes, open golf champion of the United States in 1921, will not play in the American open at Oakland Hills on June 5 and 6. Barnes forwarded his entry to the Professional Golfers' Association after May 15, the deadline day for all entries, and yesterday it was announced that Barnes would not be allowed to play in the qualifying round at Worcester.

Every other professional star in the country is among the 322 golfers who will strive for a chance to take a shot at the crown now worn by Bobby Jones. Francis Ouimet, former national open and amateur champion, and Jess Sweetser, amateur champion in 1922, are the only prominent amateurs not included in the list.

Bill Melhorn of North Hills Club will represent St. Louis.

Wingard Due to Oppose Johnson At Washington

Southpaw Has Won Three Straight Games—Today's Contest Postponed.

By J. Roy Stockton, Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff, WASHINGTON, May 21.—Today's game between the Browns and Washington Senators was called off at noon because of wet grounds. Sisler's team will remain here for a game tomorrow before moving to Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—George Sisler is not picking out any soft spots for young Ernest Wingard, his Alabama University southpaw. First, the youngster had to face the "Rough and Ready Tigers" of Ty Cobb. In Cleveland he opposed the veteran Sherry Smith. In New York he drew Herb Pennock. Huggins' star left hander. And tomorrow, when Wingard goes to the pitching slab to strive for his fourth straight victory of the season, he will find Walter Johnson opposing him.

The American League clubs are not overlooking any chances of postponing battles with the Browns. New York called off a game early, only to have the sun come out by game time. There was real reason for postponing the games in Boston. Yesterday the Senators called off their game with the Browns shortly after noon and by 3:00 o'clock the skies had cleared and a game could have been played without interference from the elements.

Delay May Prove a Help. While the Browns accept the postponements as an indication that the enemy considers St. Louis a dangerous club just now, Sisler's men also believe the postponements will help them rather than hinder them. The young pitchers especially welcome the postponements, as the crop of double-headers on the next trip East will be so heavy that they are sure to be called upon. Three are scheduled at Boston, one at New York and two here, and the Browns figure that by July the St. Louis pitching staff will be the best in the league.

The one remaining game with Washington will be a hard battle, with Johnson, the fireball king, and Morridge, available for hurling duty. The Senators will need good pitching, the Browns believe, though there is a difference of opinion as to whether the Washington club has been strengthened. The players agree that the loss of Carl East, the slugging recruit from the American Association, has hurt the Senators.

East Jumped the Club. Under the rules of baseball, Washington had to give East an increase in salary when he came up, but it is said that after a time in the big league his salary was cut and that is why he jumped to an outlay league.

Peck and Harris form an excellent combination around second base, and Joe Judge is a clever fielder and a sweet nitter. The St. Louis players, quick to scent such things, say that one thing that is keeping the Washington club from getting anywhere is dissatisfaction in the ranks over failure to obtain satisfactory salary terms.

Wingard Due to Oppose Johnson At Washington

Southpaw Has Won Three Straight Games—Today's Contest Postponed.

By J. Roy Stockton, Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff, WASHINGTON, May 21.—Today's game between the Browns and Washington Senators was called off at noon because of wet grounds. Sisler's team will remain here for a game tomorrow before moving to Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—George Sisler is not picking out any soft spots for young Ernest Wingard, his Alabama University southpaw. First, the youngster had to face the "Rough and Ready Tigers" of Ty Cobb. In Cleveland he opposed the veteran Sherry Smith. In New York he drew Herb Pennock. Huggins' star left hander. And tomorrow, when Wingard goes to the pitching slab to strive for his fourth straight victory of the season, he will find Walter Johnson opposing him.

The American League clubs are not overlooking any chances of postponing battles with the Browns. New York called off a game early, only to have the sun come out by game time. There was real reason for postponing the games in Boston. Yesterday the Senators called off their game with the Browns shortly after noon and by 3:00 o'clock the skies had cleared and a game could have been played without interference from the elements.

Delay May Prove a Help. While the Browns accept the postponements as an indication that the enemy considers St. Louis a dangerous club just now, Sisler's men also believe the postponements will help them rather than hinder them. The young pitchers especially welcome the postponements, as the crop of double-headers on the next trip East will be so heavy that they are sure to be called upon. Three are scheduled at Boston, one at New York and two here, and the Browns figure that by July the St. Louis pitching staff will be the best in the league.

The one remaining game with Washington will be a hard battle, with Johnson, the fireball king, and Morridge, available for hurling duty. The Senators will need good pitching, the Browns believe, though there is a difference of opinion as to whether the Washington club has been strengthened. The players agree that the loss of Carl East, the slugging recruit from the American Association, has hurt the Senators.

East Jumped the Club. Under the rules of baseball, Washington had to give East an increase in salary when he came up, but it is said that after a time in the big league his salary was cut and that is why he jumped to an outlay league.

Peck and Harris form an excellent combination around second base, and Joe Judge is a clever fielder and a sweet nitter. The St. Louis players, quick to scent such things, say that one thing that is keeping the Washington club from getting anywhere is dissatisfaction in the ranks over failure to obtain satisfactory salary terms.

care of the mouth

Physicians know that the normal mouth is never free from germs. There is an ever-present need of keeping them under control with some powerful, but safe, antiseptic. Otherwise there is the constant danger of their causing infection, particularly in the gums.

Zonite is acknowledged by dentists to be the ideal mouthwash—because it is absolutely non-poisonous, does not harm the delicate membranes of the mouth or throat and is a powerful, sure antiseptic. One teaspoonful in half a glass of water once or twice a day.

This wonderful character-building vision can be realized this week only if the big-hearted men and women of St. Louis who stand for the finer things of life open wide their

Then when you pass these finished institutions teeming with the life and hopes of 190,000 young men and boys, you can get an honest personal thrill for the part you played in this great enterprise. This is not charity. This is business. Good business. Your business.

Consider Property Values

How much is a neighborhood worth if it is the rendezvous of a gang? Do property values go up or down? This doesn't touch you miles away in your peaceful well-ordered home. But you pay in taxes. When whole areas are depressed in values because they are overshadowed by tough, vicious districts, every man, woman and child pays a part of the price.

Maybe you believe all the rumors. Of course, the "Y" made errors during the war. So did the Generals. So did the Government. But do you know all the tremendous things that were 100%? NEW YORK, May 21.—The Exchange Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:
"With advice from Washington indicating that the conference committee had reached a full agreement on a tax bill, and had effected most of the objectionable features which recently have been discussed, the markets displayed a better tone today. Short covering was apparent on the stock exchange from the start and while volume was not particularly large, total sales amounting to only about $50,000,000, it produced a number of gains of 1 and 2 points among leading stocks. Rails continued to show strength and achieved several new highs for the year. Oils were good. Bonds remained quiet but firm and call money held a per cent throughout.

Exchange Market Quiet.
"Quietness persisted in the foreign exchange market with France again furnishing nearly the interest. The cables from Paris brought a number of interesting reports concerning French Government policy. Insofar as these reports gave the impression that bankers have asked the Bank of France for a definition of policy in connection with the fall of the franc, they are misleading. Local banks are not at all disturbed by the fall of the franc from the extreme level to which short covering carried them. They are convinced of the wisdom of the policy of a free market, which the Bank of France has adhered during the past week or so. As a matter of fact, the franc rose more sharply and higher than was desirable for French finance. Trade and so the reaction to a more normal equilibrium.
"The cables from Paris left little doubt, however, that the leaders of the incoming party have come together with the representatives of the outgoing Government and of the Bank of France to discuss fiscal policy. The old leaders undoubtedly have wished to inform the new ones with regard to facts of the position and to arrange for a continuity of policy during the transition period. That Harriot-Falleville should have announced their firm adherence to the policy of balancing the Government's budget is only in line with expectation. Their action removes, however, doubt which existed in some minds. France has had too much experience with a depreciating currency with other than a sound fiscal policy.

In any event, offerings of French francs were scanty and steady demand lifted the price points to 53 1/2 cents. Belgium francs gained 4 points to 4.6 cents in sympathy with this movement. Sterling was 1/4 of a cent higher at 44 1/2 cents and the other European currencies scarcely changed. There was a fair amount of commercial business which was even balanced, but the market was distinctly quiet in tone.
Steel Industry Situation.
"Reports from the steel industry show that curtailment still is under way. The Iron Age states that steel ingot output is at 68 per cent of capacity as compared with 75 per cent a week ago. Pig iron production has been similarly reduced. New business meanwhile is stated to be in smaller volume and prices are down. Buyers are sounding the market but realize that there are large stocks of iron piled and the consumption of it is decreasing. The market, in other words, has turned yet."

Clearings for May 19, 1924, $31,800,000; for corresponding day last year, $21,100,000. Total to date $1,807,700,000. Corresponding day last year $1,251,500,000.

A Powerful Story of Today

CHAPTER THIRTY

ALL Mr. Corey's personal mail passed through Jeannette's hands; she opened and read most of it. He dictated to her his letters to his son at Cambridge, and even those to his wife and Babs when they went to Kennebunkport for the summer. Jeannette learned that Willis had been madly in love with a married woman who sang in the choir of a Fifth Avenue church, that he was given to midnight carousing, smoked far too many cigarettes, that his mother spoiled him, and his father was disgusted with him. With the aid of a "cramming" school, he had somehow wiggled himself into Harvard, but Mr. Corey had made him distinctly understand that at the first complaint concerning him he would have to withdraw and go to work. Jeannette came to know, too, that Babs was epileptic and that early in May she had had the first fit in two years, and that the day after her mother and herself had arrived in Kennebunkport, she had had another. Letters of a very agitated nature passed between the parents as to what should now be done. Nothing was decided. Likewise Jeannette learned that Mrs. Corey was at times recklessly extravagant. Her husband repeatedly had to call her to account, and sometimes they had violent quarrels about the matter. Just before Mrs. Corey departed for Maine she had bought six hats for herself and Babs, and had charged over three hundred dollars' worth of new clothing. Mr. Corey had been exasperated, as only a few weeks before he had made a point of asking her to economize in every way possible during the coming summer. He himself, Jeannette knew, must shortly undergo a more or less serious operation, of which his family was totally ignorant, that he was worried because his Life Insurance Company had declined after an examination to increase the amount of his insurance, and that he had successfully engineered a loan to wipe off his indebtedness to the big Pulp and Paper Company.

There was little that concerned him with which she did not become acquainted. She knew that his house on Tenth street was heavily mortgaged and that on the second loan carried by the property he was paying an outrageous rate of interest; that on the tenth of every month he never failed to send a check for sixty-six dollars and sixty-seven cents to a man in Memphis, Tennessee, that his dentist threatened to sue him unless he settled a bill that had been owing for two years; that on the first of every month, Mr. Olmstead deposited to his account in the Chemical National Bank five hundred dollars; that no month ever passed without his chief sending for the old man and directing him to deposit an additional hundred, or two hundred, or sometimes three hundred to his account, and that these sums appeared on the books of the company as personal indebtedness. Frequently this levy upon the company's bank balance upset Mr. Olmstead, and more than once Jeannette heard the old cashier emphatically assert as he rapped his eye-glasses in his agitated fashion upon his thumb-nail:

"All right, Mr. Corey—you're the boss here, and I've got to do as you say, but I won't answer for it, Mr. Corey. I warn you, sir, we won't have enough for next week's pay-roll!"

"Oh, yes, yes, yes," Mr. Corey would soothe him. "We'll manage somehow; you pay the money in the bank for me and we'll talk about it afterwards."

There were even more intimate things about the man she served which became his secretary's knowledge. He sometimes took the sixth of a grain of strychnine when he was unusually tired, he dyed his mustache and eyebrows, and wore hygienic underwear for which he paid six dollars a garment. She had charge of his personal bank account. She drew the checks, put them before him for his signature, and sent them out in the mail. While Mrs. Corey was in Kennebunkport, she paid all the household expenses of the establishment on Tenth Street: electric light and milk bills, grocer's and butcher's accounts, the wages of the cook. She knew what were Mr. Corey's dues and expenses at the Lotus Club, what he paid for his clothes, what he owed at Brooks Bros., and at the Everett House where he had a charge account and signed checks for his lunches. There were no secrets in his life that were closed to her; he had less than most men to conceal; she considered him the most generous, the most upright, the most admirable man in the world.

It was on a hot Saturday afternoon in July when no one but themselves were in the office, that Jeannette told Mr. Corey about Roy. She had not seen quite so much of Roy lately; he had been away on a business trip, and Horatio Stephens had asked him to spend his fortnight's vacation with himself and family at Asbury Park. He had written her letters full of endearment and underscored assertions of love, and had returned to plead eagerly that she set the day for the wedding and begin to plan with him how and where they should live. His earnestness made her realize she could temporize no longer.

"It isn't that I don't care for him," she said to Mr. Corey; "it's just that I don't want to get married, I guess."

The windows were open and a gentle hot wind stirred the loose papers on the desk. A lazy rumble of traffic rose from the street, punctuated now and then by the shrill voices of children in the Square, and the merry jingle of a hurdy-gurdy.

"You mustn't tarry with your happiness, Miss Sturgis," Corey said, pulling at his mustache thoughtfully. "You know this is all very well here for a time, but you must think of the future."

Jeannette stared out of the window and for some minutes there was silence; she spoke presently with knitted brows.

"Oh, I've gone over it and over it, again and again, and it seems more than I can do to give up my independence and the fun of living my own life just yet. I—I like Mr. Beardsley; I think we'd be happy together. He's devoted to me, and he's most amiable,"—she glanced with a smile at her employer's face. "My mother and my sister are eager to have me marry him, but I just can't,—can't bring myself to give up my work and my life here to substitute matrimony."

"No consideration for me, my dear girl, ought to influence you. I'd be sorry to lose you, of course; you're the best secretary I ever had, and I'd be hard put to it to find anyone who could begin to fill your place even remotely. But you mustn't think I couldn't manage; I'd find somebody. Your duty is to yourself and living your own life."

"It isn't that, Mr. Corey. It's the work that I love; I don't want to give it up—the excitement and the fun of it. It's a thousand times more exhilarating than cooking and dish-washing. . . . And then there's the question of finances, which, it seems to me, I'm bound to consider. Mr. Beardsley's getting twenty-five and I'm getting twenty-five; that's fifty dollars a week we earn, but if I marry him, we both would have to live on just his salary."

"Yes—that's very true," the man admitted. "The girl threw him a quick glance, and went on hesitatingly: "I don't suppose we could marry and each of us go on holding our jobs?"

Mr. Corey considered, stroking his black mustache with a thoughtful thumb and finger.

The Fashion Display at Churchill Downs on Derby Day

SKETCHED DERBY DAY AT LOUISVILLE

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.
DERBY DAY at Churchill Downs, Louisville, is not the place where the newest and most daring creations of fashion are launched, as is the case at the French race courses. No dress-makers' mannequins parade in costumes intended to astound and tax the credulity of the beholder. But it is the sporting event par excellence in this country, to which women from near and far rise to do honor by appearing at their very most ornamental best. It is the occasion where it is possible to note which are proving the most acceptable among the modes. It is the test, the finish of fashion's race begun in Paris.

Judged upon this basis, among the entries which reached the goal most triumphantly was the gown of crepe or georgette with cape or wrap to match, trimmed with fur also dyed to match. Most frequently this costume's colors were one of the cocoa shades, biscuit or champagne. Other variations of it were in gray, dark blue, black and white. Sometimes the wrap or cape was accented pleated. A lot of accordion pleating was noted in the gowns worn Saturday, whether of printed or plain-colored georgette or crepe.

Just as smart and more appropriate, due to the cloudiness and breeziness of the weather, were the trim tailor-mades or gay sports suits of flannel in any shade, vivid or delicate. The dark tailor-mades invariably were accompanied by a gay scarf. Fortunate was the woman who had come prepared with a sports coat in some vivid hue, and there were many of these in orange, citron, canary, robin's egg, gentian, powder blue, jade green, peach, apricot or some one of the rust and nasturtium shades. Almost invariably these had collars of fur, flat ermine dyed various shades, squirrel or fox, dyed or pointed.

The coat frock of twill or charmeuse, crepe or flannel in every imaginable color also finished up near the first in the race. Many of the flannels were in Roman stripes, either vertical or horizontal.

Then there were the three-piece costume suits with rather long coat and blouse of contrasting color and material, made with short sleeves showing when the day warmed up and coats could be opened or laid aside.

It was the Louisville women, the Blue Grass belles, famous for their grace and charm, who dared the lighter, more summery costume with the picture hat. They were in the minority among a crowd estimated at 100,000 men and women gathered from all the sporting centers and many way stations, but they stood out in a tawny relief, even against the motley colorful background.

It had been expected that women members of famous families from the East and from Chicago would set the pace in the race in the boxes, even as their horses have been expected to do on the track. Everybody knows now how it was the Western horses which triumphed on that day, and it must be admitted in the early caparisoned assemblage in the grand stands the bit, Whitney, Widener women, if they were entries in the race, also were found to be "also rans." As their horses were little timid, their women folk also proved a little backward in the face of threatening weather conditions and apparently did not get from their traveling costumes. Or perhaps they intended to go slower pace. In which case it may be their ideas are due for a revision, even as is proven their horses will have to acquire a pace in future meets with Western racers.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A 10-Cent Expenditure.
A 10-cent saucepan kept to hold paraffin tins from jelly tumblers is a sensible thought. Then when paraffin is needed the pan can be set on the stove and the wax ready in a jiffy.

For the Car Owner.
One woman who drives her own car carries in the tool kit an 11-inch square of canvas. She uses it to kneel on when doing repairs to prevent the jack from slipping on snow or ice, to keep the tools from rattling and to protect her hands when handling hot parts.

In Case of Fire.
Don't lose your head. Don't jump unless the flames are upon you. Crawl on the floor to an exit, as the clearest air is the lowest in the room. Don't go to the roof unless you know of a certain escape to adjoining buildings. If you must jump through flames to get to safety, gauge your distance and then cover your head with a blanket or heavy clothing before leaping.

Asparagus.
Ask for Vicro Brand. Only the young plants are used, thoroughly cleaned. In buying canned goods you want the best and that is the Vicro Brand. Sold only by your independent neighborhood grocer.

Finish What You Start

By Ruth Leigh
A HIGH priced executive of one of the leading manufacturing concerns in the United States was recently asked to resign. He had been with the concern quite a few years, and outsiders were much surprised at this sudden change. Later, discussing this change with one of the officials of the company, I remarked about the incident.

"The reason why M— is no longer with this company is not generally known to outsiders," this official remarked, "but I will tell you what was that man's undoing, and will probably be his biggest weakness throughout his business career; he never finishes the work he starts."

This executive went on to explain that Mr. M— was head of the advertising and sales promotion department. It was all right for an executive, he claimed, to inaugurate plans and see that others carried them out thoroughly. But apparently Mr. M— would start schemes, and then when he had gotten everyone else started working on them in great enthusiasm, he would not only forget about them, but would, apparently, lose his own enthusiasm for them.

SHISH KEBAB IS LAMB BROILED ON SKEWERS

PARTS of the shoulder in the forequarter of lamb are fully as tender as other cuts, but less shapely than the leg to carve and serve. The meat close to the shoulderblade and where the "eye" of the rib chops can be traced toward the neck will furnish tender cubes of meat which can be run on skewers and broiled or panbroiled in the same way as chops, while the less tender pieces in the shoulder or forequarter may be chopped up and stewed. In Armenian restaurants lamb broiled on skewers in this way is called "shish kebab." A little onion juice is sometimes squeezed over the meat just before cooking it. Salt and pepper are added when the broiled skewers of meat are served. Meat can be cooked out of doors in this way, using long sticks instead of skewers.

Real friendship is of slow growth and never thrives unless engrafted upon a stock of known and reciprocal merit.

Children's Bedtime Story By Thornton W. Burgess

Chatterer Is Sure of an Egg Breakfast

Be sure of nothing, would you be
From bitter disappointment free.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

He had taken care not to go near one of these nests.

CHATTERER the Red Squirrel had laid his plans carefully. By spying he had discovered where nearly all of the little people of the Old Orchard had built their nests. He had taken care not to go near one of those nests. He knew what a fuss would be made if he should be discovered, and how all the feathered folk would laugh at him. He was crafty. Chatterer the Red Squirrel, had meant to rob as many nests as he could without being discovered.

Now, the nearest nest to the old stonewall was that of Golden-eyes the Flicker. To Chatterer's way of thinking that was the safest of all the nests because the eggs in it were sure to be the largest. You may be sure he kept a very sharp watch of that Flicker home. Hidden between the stones in the old stonewall he would watch all that went on. So was that he found out when Mrs. Flicker was through laying eggs. He knew she was through because she had begun sitting on them. Then he kept a closer watch than ever. He knew that he had to go hunt for food every day, and he found out about that time she usually left the nest. She was always gone long enough to give him plenty of time to get those eggs, and get back to his hiding place in the old stonewall.

So at last Chatterer decided that early the next morning he would get those eggs. He was hidden in the old stonewall by the time jolly, round red Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. He saw Mrs. Flicker put her head out of the nest and look this way and that. She sat there for a few moments and then out she came. Chatterer chuckled and licked his whiskers greedily. But he didn't go over to that nest. He wanted to be sure that Mrs. Flicker was far enough away for him to see her there unseen. Now, just after Mrs. Flicker the nest who should arrive

This is Blank wash time

—keep all your blankets soft and unshrunken

Now is the time to wash them. When you put them away, of course they will be spotlessly clean.

You've always used your hands to wash some blankets. You know they would come from the tubs shrunken.

But now there is a blanket soft and unshrunken—to prove it gives them warmth. Wash them in a tub, you can trust all your blankets—of flannel, nap, wool and cotton—to gentle Lux soap and mild, entirely free from any harsh soap chip will shrink and ruin. A single care less washing with Lux will shrink a blanket 18 inches.

Your blankets will be their Lux laundering—they'll be as fluffy as when they were new. Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

THE BOY WITH A FUTURE

By Wm. A. McKeever

IT was my pleasure recently to sit at lunch with a 12-year-old boy and learn from his own lips how he lives by a systematic program. He has a schedule for rising, for study and reading, for house work and for Sunday. Best of all, he seems to have helped in making out his own plan.

Up at 7:30, school from 9 to 3, Y. M. C. A. basket ball and gymnasium following that, home for dinner and evening study, with reading, radio and family sociability intermingled, retire at 10, giving nine hours to sleep—that is the round for the five school days. Saturday forenoon, 9 to 12, is given systematically to helping about the house.

It is understood that this three-hour period belongs to mother, and nothing must interfere. If one piece of work happens to be finished, there is more of another kind to be found.

Friday night and Saturday night this 12-year-old is permitted to remain up an hour or two extra with his radio, if he desires, but he makes up the loss by sleeping overtime Sunday morning. On the Sabbath he is expected to be up and ready to attend Sunday school. Sunday afternoon is "relaxation time," as they have named it, for this boy and his brother and sister and parents. He tells me that they always try to do something good but "different" during this free period. Usually the family group all go out in their car and have a good time, but they aim never to repeat. They do not want to form any regular Sunday afternoon habits.

Now, I feel that this young Scout has taught me a lesson which deserves broadcasting. And the biggest idea he gave me is that relating to the program or schedule by which his life is regulated. Not only men but also boys can accomplish more and insure a larger degree of happiness in case they live regularly. Such a regimen for a boy—if followed—means a slow but certain mastery of his own behavior.

The next big idea passed to me by this interesting young "table-maker" was that of a boy becoming fond of his own program of living. How did he parents do it? How did they lead the son to take an active interest in shaping his own daily life, so that he seemed to be the real planner and leader of the affair and they merely the assistants? The boy could not answer that important question, but by reasoning indirectly from what he said, I am confident that the secret of the parents was family comradeship. They kept up happy social relations among all the members and lived in the conscious atmosphere of their young, day by day.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

A LITTLE OF BOTH.

MARRIAGE may be regarded as a joke by the younger generation—but just wait until they try to "laugh it off!"

Platitudes without tact is as dangerous as a motor car without a brake; it is always either skidding onto the wrong side of somebody's pet vanity or landing a man in deep water when he never meant to go beyond a flirtation.

A woman never can understand why her husband wants to go out and play poker when he could stay right at home and sit up all night and swear, without losing any money.

Sweet are the uses of masculine vanity! When a girl says, "No, no"—a man always translates it as "Yes, yes—go on!" And when she tells him she doesn't love him, he merely concludes that she "doesn't know her own mind."

The first recorded act of the first man was to complain to heaven about something that a woman gave him to EAT—and he has been complaining about the same thing ever since.

A man never can understand why his wife always prefers one of those "intimate domestic dramas" to a hilarious comedy—but then no man can appreciate how it comforts a woman to see somebody else "suffer" the way she does.

Courage is a mysterious thing. A man will defy prohibition at a dinner party and get up afterward and denounce the Government in a scathing speech—and then go home and tip-toe upstairs with his shoes in his hand and his heart in his mouth.

A good wife is the shock-absorber that takes all the disagreeable little jolts out of the domestic machinery and eases a man over all the rough spots on the road to success.

It's always wise to keep a "dancing husband," like a dancing bear, on a chain.

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN

According to late census figures women in Great Britain exceed men by more than 2,000,000.

At the age of 90 years, Mrs. Della Schmidt, of Colchester, Conn., has just had her hair bobbed.

Carrying greetings from Mayor Mikey to President Coolidge, Miss Gwendolen Lazier has started on a 600-mile horseback ride from Belleville, Ont., to Washington.

When she paid $500 for a prize-winning cat, Mrs. Edward Sams of Egham, England, gained the distinction of leading all other English buyers in the purchase of such animals.

London has two large hospitals which were founded by women and are entirely staffed by women.

In Holland many of the young women who marry are working girls, and they keep right on working.

Women's agricultural institutes in England and Wales now number nearly 3000, with an estimated membership of 150,000.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has asked that her yearly allowance from the Government be cut in conformity with the reduction in salaries made for all civil service officeholders.

As a mark of beauty some African women stretch their lips to an enormous size.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

The Imp of Laughter.

ONE day so very dreary, very gloomy, very dull, my head of thoughts was empty and my desk with work was full. As well as I remember now, it was a dismal time when all the leaves were falling and the year was void of rhyme. When I got a funny figure, rather cheerful, yet grotesque, came gaily in and settled down upon my battered desk. A little Imp of Laughter with a twinkle in his eye, he grinned at all the tasks of day as they came trooping by. With stubborn words to juggle and with lengthy screeds to write, he watched me worry through the day with chuckles of delight. And soon, before I knew just how, I found I'd been imbued with all his foolish little ways, and caught his merry mood! I had not cared to sing before, and yet, the whole day long, I often found upon my lips the vagrant notes of song!

The work that had been heavy changed to pastime, glad and light; the weather, that had seemed so dark, grew strangely fine and bright! The little troubles, frets and cares that mar too many a day were mocked by tinkling laughter till they scurried right away. I had a leisure hour left, when all my stints were through to wander out and back awhile beneath the blessed blue. And often, now, I look at him across my battered desk and talk about the hour he came so gay and picturesque. Oh, yes, we're very chummy, now, for since that gracious day the Imp of Laughter came along, I've never let him stay.

The Sympathy You Need

By Sophie Irene Loeb

WHEN analyzed there is nothing so vital to the average human as sympathy at the time when he needs it most. Many a suicide would be averted, many a catastrophe avoided and many a trouble lessened if the person involved had the right sympathy at the right time.

SOPHIE IRENE LOEB

Nothing in the world so buoys up your spirits as the sympathy of a friend comes to you, realizing your hurts, says: "I am with you," and tries to show you the best way out. Deliver me from the one who comes to me when I am in trouble and chirps, "Cheer up," smiles at me and goes away, leaving me with my misery. Of all the words I would rather not hear when I am in trouble, I list these two, "cheer up."

They are meaningless words and make me even more miserable because I can't cheer up that way. Such mere words told you by the best friend in the world can't change your feelings.

The way to cheer up is to get into the right frame of mind, and to get into the right frame of mind you must get the spirit of hope in your heart and to get the spirit of hope in your heart you need the sympathy that reassures—the clasp of a hand, the kindness that has real heart-interest in it and the comradeship that means to stand by you.

These are the things that stiffen your backbone and make it possible for you to be of good cheer. Soothing indeed is he who comes to talk to me, to take me out somewhere, to show me something and direct my thoughts into happier channels; to work my trials out with me and let me talk out my heart to him or her; to have somebody listen and understand and give me the word that I need; that he believes in me and that he knows what I am going through and is right there with me all the time.

That is the sympathy that is more valuable than radium, for, strange to say, people run away when you have something to bear. They don't like to be a part of pain. And most of the time you weep alone. That is what causes most of the wrinkles and the gray hair in the world—lack of sympathy.

I wonder how many people realize the great wrong they do their friends in withholding sympathy at a time when it is most necessary. It is usually the proud strong person who needs that sympathy most because he does not ask it. The weak one will but he or she hears until their hearts nearly break for the want of some sympathy.

Most of the time it is those who achieve much who are the most lonesome ones because sympathy and understanding are not given them. It is more worth while indeed to give solace to such a one who has something to give to the world, than many others whose trials can be readily overcome.

And it costs so little after all—sympathy. We need more of it in the world—less hardness, less discouragement, nothing that gives you so much hope and makes you look out into the world and say "It isn't so bad after all."

The New Plain Garter

THE loss of a garter once provoked the famous saying, "Honi soit qui mal y pense." If you were to lose one of the newest garters a gallant remark would not be needed to save the situation. Simply because the newest ones are not the frilly, personal looking affairs we have been used to seeing. They might be mistaken for a black wrist band or a fob. When tailored suits came along, women decided that tailored garters were necessary to complete the severity of the outfit, so they evolved what is nothing more than a strap of elastic, much like the strap you used to hitch around your school books. Eyelets are stitched into the length of elastic and a small nickel buckle is used to fasten the garter in place. When the "pop" goes out of the elastic, you merely pull the buckle to the next eyelet and your garters are good for a further stretch.

The Parasol for Summer.

The parasol is to be an important adjunct of the summer costume. Why a parasol should be carried with a sports suit is a question. Nevertheless, the parasol to be carried with such a suit matches the scarf which in turn matches the hat.
